Anyone desiring to obtain something and having the initiative to strive for that desire has a goal. A football player going for a touchdown has a goal. Little girls have goals of growing up to become just like Mommy.

At BC we all have goals, about life and how we want school to be. Our goals differ however because of different personalities. Whether our dreams become realities, we should never cease dreaming. One should find a star and climb toward it, for progress was never made without first dreams.

Summer of '72

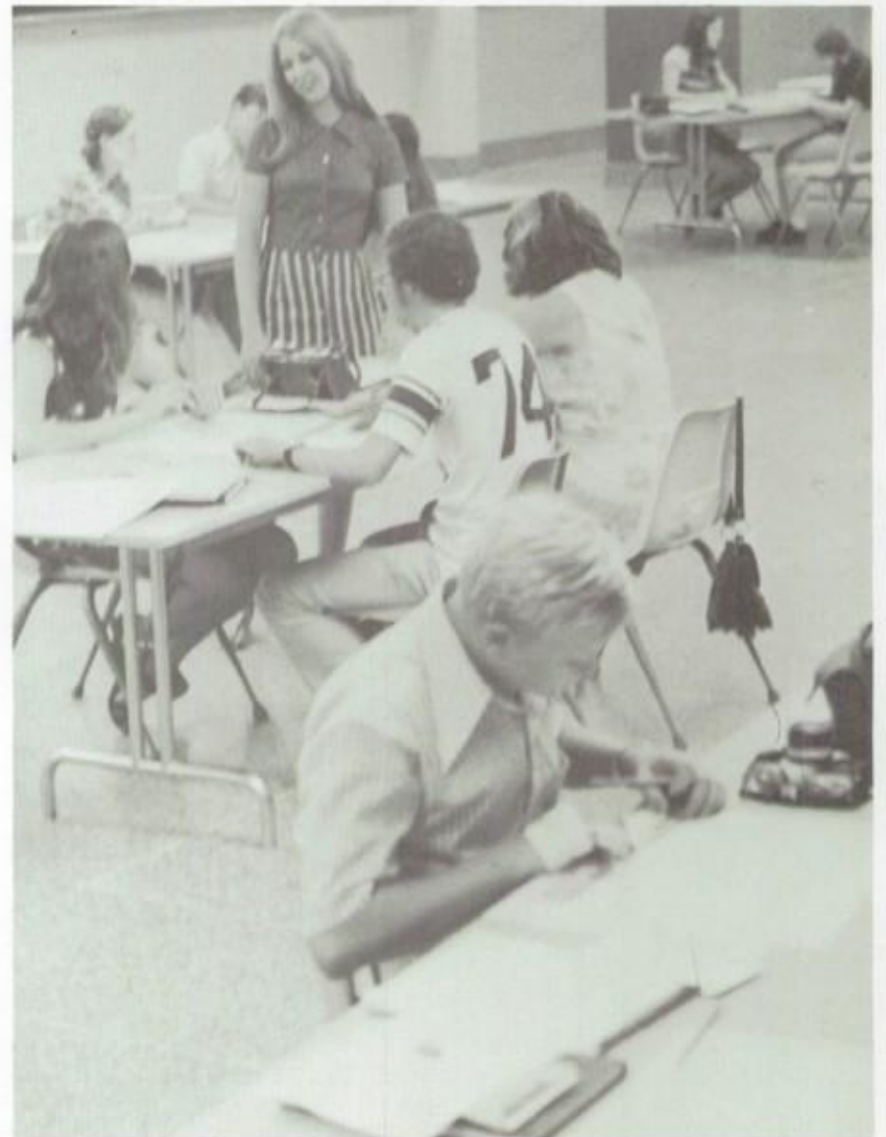

While many students were vacationing this summer, others were making money and developing a sense of responsibility at jobs and workshops.

Students attending journalism workshops were Marianne Turmail at IU; and Joyce Turmail, Jan Wolka, and Doug Lucas at Ball State. The girls went to yearbook workshops while Doug attended a photography workshop. Debbie Baker, Judy Smallwood, and Doug Pogue participated in IU's Music Clinic; and Jane Pottschmidt and Sue Armstrong attended Purdue's instrumental clinic. Jill Wells, Donna Sherrill, Jerry Disque, and John McCrary were Girls' and Boys' State delegates. Reserve and varsity cheerleaders went to camps at Vincennes University.

"Summer of '72" brought a variety of experiences to students, but with the county fair returned the thought of school.

Doug Pogue, Sue Armstrong, Debbie Baker, Jane Pottschmidt and Judy Smallwood attended band and music clinics. Doug, Debbie, and Judy went to the music clinic at I.U. and Sue and Jane attended band clinics at I.U. and Purdue, respectively.

Jan Wolka, standing, gives advice about drawing a preliminary layout to Quiver members attending the two day summer workshop. The purpose of the workshop, which was the first one held here at Central, was to introduce the basics of the production of the yearbook.

Showing what they learned at journalism and photography workshops last summer are Doug Lucas, Joyce Turmail, Marianne Turmail, and Jan Wolka. Marianne Attended Indiana University while Doug, Joyce, and Jan went to Ball State University.

Brings Workshops For Centralites

Attending a camp at Vincennes University were the varsity and reserve cheerleaders. Front Row: Carol Wischmeier, Donna Disque, Debbie Darlage, Kathy Reid. Back Row: Jeanie Brewer, Teresa Mulberry, Joyce Greger, Bonnie Pottschmidt, Jeanne Reid.

"Clowning around," Jerry Disque, Donna Sherrill, Jill Wells, and John McCrary exchange stories from Girls' and Boys' State. Girls' and Boys' State inform students about our national government's organization and administration.

On the first day of school, students crowd around the hall display cases near the front doors to determine their homeroom numbers.

After receiving class schedule sheets, they proceed to their first period classes to begin a year of studying and learning.

Usually the photographer doesn't appear in the picture, but while taking Jack Green's school picture, this one is photographed, too.

Although not legally eligible to vote in the '72 Presidential election, Ray Toon supports his political party by decorating a locker with stickers and posters and wearing buttons.

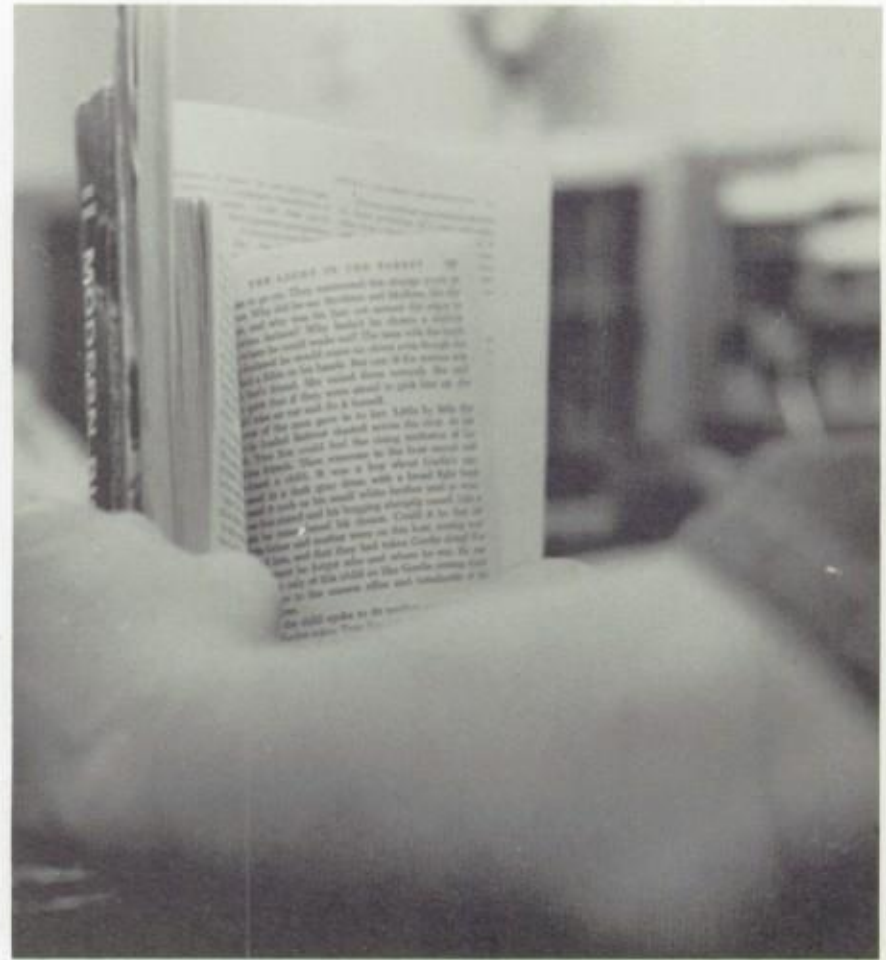

Classes, Fun Make BC Scene

"School days, school days, dear old golden rule days. Readin and 'ritin and 'rithmetic, taught to the tune of a hickory stick . . ." Schools have changed since the writing of these lyrics. At Central many subjects besides the three R's were offered. New courses added to the curriculum were publications, ICE and Latin 3.

The routine of the "dear old golden rule days," was interrupted by ballgames, dances, musicals and class plays. "Super Sneaker" and "Teacher Beauty Queens" pep sessions and special convocations highlighted the year.

"I was your queen in calico, you were my bashful barefoot beau . . ." Clothing has changed from calico prints to palazzo pants, smock tops and cuffed pants. Fads like the wearing of Dennis the Menace rings or coloring animal folders were also "in."

Years from now Centralites will look back on '72-73 with memories and say, "Remember those days when 'we were a couple of kids'."

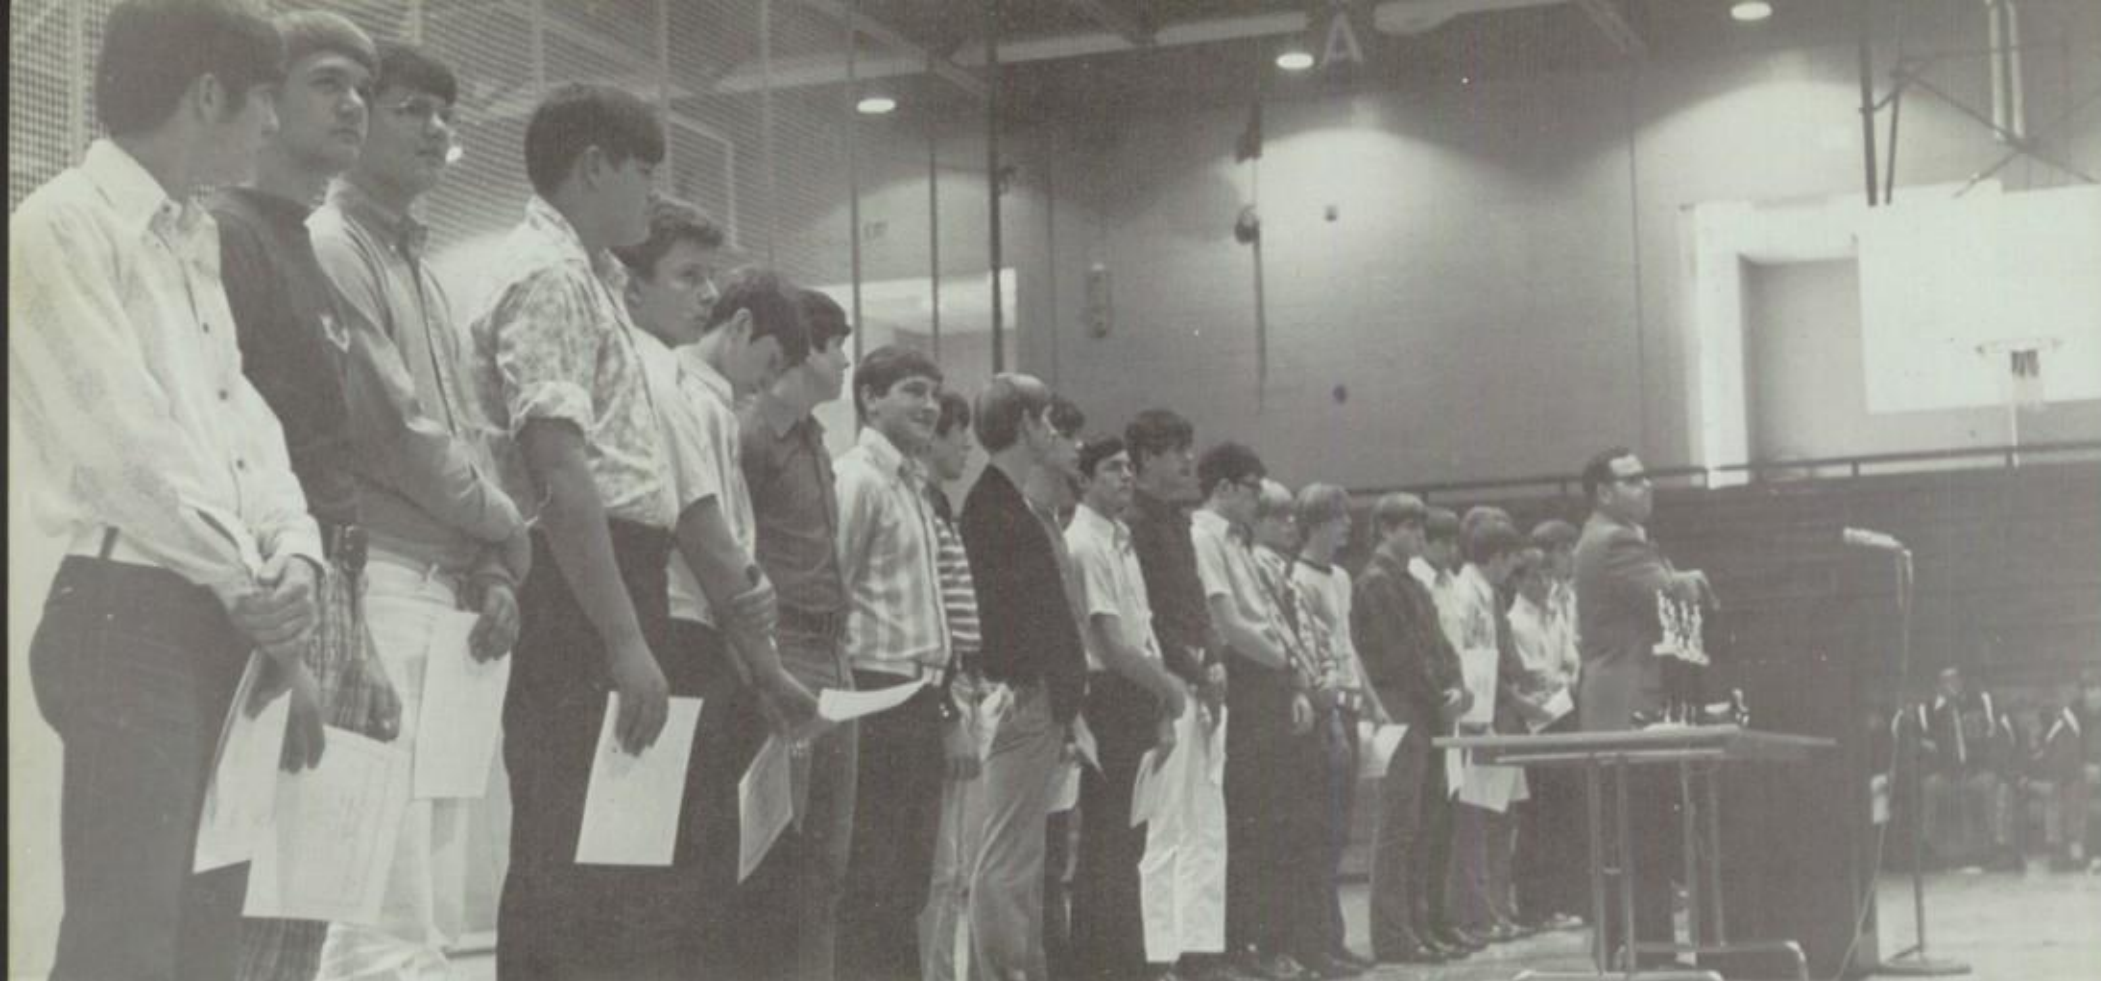

Caught in the act by the camera, a sneaky student uses a larger text book to his advantage by concealing a paperback book.

'73's fashion picture includes everything from overalls to cuffed pants and the midi-look to palazzo-pants and smock-tops. Models

In a special convocation, football underclassmen letters and certificates were awarded by Mr. Johnson while Senior members of the team were presented letterjackets. Certain Senior boys were also honored with trophies from the Jaycees and the athletic department.

'72-73 Brings "Rings and Things"

Students wear Dennis the Menace rings given to customers at the Dairy Queen and start a new fad at BCHS this year.

One the first day of school Mr. Roessler matches the face of a Sophomore in his home room to the name on the schedule sheet.

"Cannon" Fire Heard At Dance

With a blast from "Cannon," the band, the GAA annual Christmas Dance was underway. Couples continuously fired at each other with cameras, stopping only to re-load with flash cubes or film.

Prior to the actual fighting, committees had launched a surprise attack on the school, successfully camouflaging the cafeteria and main entrance. Using a sleigh, a mural, foil, holly, pine branches, and "drifts of snow," they carried out their theme of "Nights In White Satin."

That night, December 16, 1972, a cease-fire was announced at eleven o'clock by the commanding generals, Mrs. Marsha Thompson and Mrs. Terrye Tormoehlen. Within sixty seconds the troops were sent home or transferred to another base.

GAA officers Terry Hurt, Cheryl Terkhorn, Rena Achelpohl, and Marcia Brewer take an imaginary sleigh ride at the dance.

With the spirit of Christmas and romance, couples at the Christmas Dance listen and dance to the music of "Cannon". This formal dance, an annual event sponsored by the GAA, is one in which the girls have the chance to ask the boys.

Mother Nature Sends Rain To Hinder

The crowning of the Football Homecoming Queen was staged at the dance because of rain. Members of the court and their escorts were, front row: Danny Johnson and Dottie Warren. Second row: Diane

Members of the '73 Basketball Homecoming court were: Marcia Brewer, Lisa Shoemaker, Cheryl England, Queen Cathy Crider, Carol Wischemeier, Carol Shoemaker, and Jenny Miller. The escorts were Carey Lambring, Bill Sons, Tim Terkhorn, John McCrary, Mike Smith, Jim Tullledge, and Dave Clark, Kent Perry and Becky Snyder served as junior escorts.

Crowning

Laden with corsages, Basketball Homecoming escorts, chosen by the candidates, await the announcement of the Queen and her court.

Bernie (Mrs. Burcham) waves to the crowd after Louisa Mae (Mr. Sommers) and she have been crowned in a mock election.

If it hadn't been for Mother Nature, the Football Homecoming might have run smoothly. Although the rain might have dampened the queen candidates' spirits, it didn't stop the Braves' drowning of the Paoli Rams.

The pep sessions prior to both games were somewhat unique. For the football pep session each class made a float using a little red wagon. Being "Super Sneaker Day" too, the Junior class was awarded the "Super Sneaker Trophy" for the best float. At the basketball pep session, teachers, dressed as the opposite sex, vied for "Homecoming King and Queen."

The Basketball Homecoming, also rainy, brought another win for the Braves. Teresa Warren and Cathy Crider were chosen by popular vote as Football and Basketball Homecoming Queens, respectively.

Plantation Dance Held in Cafeteria

When couples entered the school cafeteria for the Junior-Senior Prom, they may have felt transported back into time to a dance on a Southern plantation.

Assigned Junior committees decorated the garden and the cafeteria as a ballroom carrying out their theme, "Southern Serenade." To give the appearance of a ballroom the Juniors used a rose strung porch swing, green ferned and pink flowered balls hanging from the ceiling, a flower-covered archway, floral murals, and white banisters set for the band, the "Brotherhood." Even the Eighth grade servers were dressed as "darkies" of the "Old South." Elected as the Prom Queen, Terry Hurt was the "Belle of the South."

At midnight the Prom-goers moved to the Walnut Street Gym for the "After-Prom," still staying in the "South" with a Mardi Gras setting. The parents of the Seniors presented skits for entertainment and gave away door prizes. Providing music for the occasion were the "Fanatiks."

To tie in with the prom theme, "Southern Serenade," the Eighth grade servers were dressed as Negro slaves. They served punch and cookies to the couples from the table in the garden.

While the escorts for the Queen's court look on, Jerry Disque, president of last year's Junior class, places the crown on Terry Hurt, the 1971-72 Prom Queen.

Stepping through the archway and entering into the Southern atmosphere of the prom are Alice Scott and Greg Ault.

Taking a break from the action of the prom in the cafeteria, couples stroll through the garden visiting with other prom-goers or just looking at the various decorations.

Our Goal:

To Attain Unity

Ben Franklin's statement to the colonists for unity against England, "We must all hang together now, or . . . we shall all hang separately," can be used when speaking of clubs at Central.

Every club has a purpose whether it is to back the team or relate school news to the students. However, sometimes it is difficult to achieve a purpose or to formulate plans because members have divergent opinions. With the combination of ideas or with compromise, an endeavor becomes a success and an organization attains its immediate goal and ultimate purpose for existing.

Journalism Students Attack The Arrow

Quill and Scroll members from both the yearbook and paper staffs, work on their sections during publications class. These students were selected for their outstanding journalistic work.

Under the leadership of the President Patty Stahl, the forces of the Quill and Scroll Society set out to attack "The Arrow." "The Arrow" is a pamphlet of short stories and poems contributed by the students. The reason for this initiative struggle was to improve the publication and make the club's only money making project profitable. Helping the commander call out orders this year were Marianne Turmail, Vice-President; Kathy Wessel, Secretary; and Joyce Turmail, Treasurer.

Members were selected for this national honorary society by being outstanding in their journalistic work. National members of the Quill and Scroll must be Juniors or Seniors, in the upper third of their class, and be on a school publication. Honorary members meet all of the above requirements, excluding being Juniors or Seniors.

Guest speakers in some way connected with journalism spoke at the monthly meetings, and a field trip was taken in the spring.

Flexible Joints Acquire Points

The Lettermen's Club played host to forty-four members this year, under Mr. Larry Johnson, their sponsor. These young men earned their membership by meeting the requirements set by the School Athletic Council, composed of Mr. Sharp, Mr. Driver, Mr. Blevins, and the head coaches. Requirements set for the various sports were as follows: Football—a boy must play in 40 quarters and be certified for conference play. Basketball—a player must play in 40 quarters and be certified for both sectional and conference games. Cross Country—a harrier must finish in the top 7 runners and be certified for the sectional. Golf—a "putter" must participate in one-half of the matches and be certified for sectional and conference play. Tennis—a boy must compete in one-half of the matches and be available for all of them. Baseball—a boy must play in one-half of the total innings and be certified for sectional. Track—a player must earn a total of 15 points throughout the season.

Grant Schneider served as President, while Tom Ault was Vice-President; Marvin Peters, Secretary; Mark Sommers, Treasurer; and Terry Ault, Sergeant-at-Arms.

Helping to prevent confusion in the parking lot for the fans driving to home games, is a member of the Lettermen's Club. BCHS Lettermen park cars at all home basketball and football games.

Mythological Acts

Entertain Club

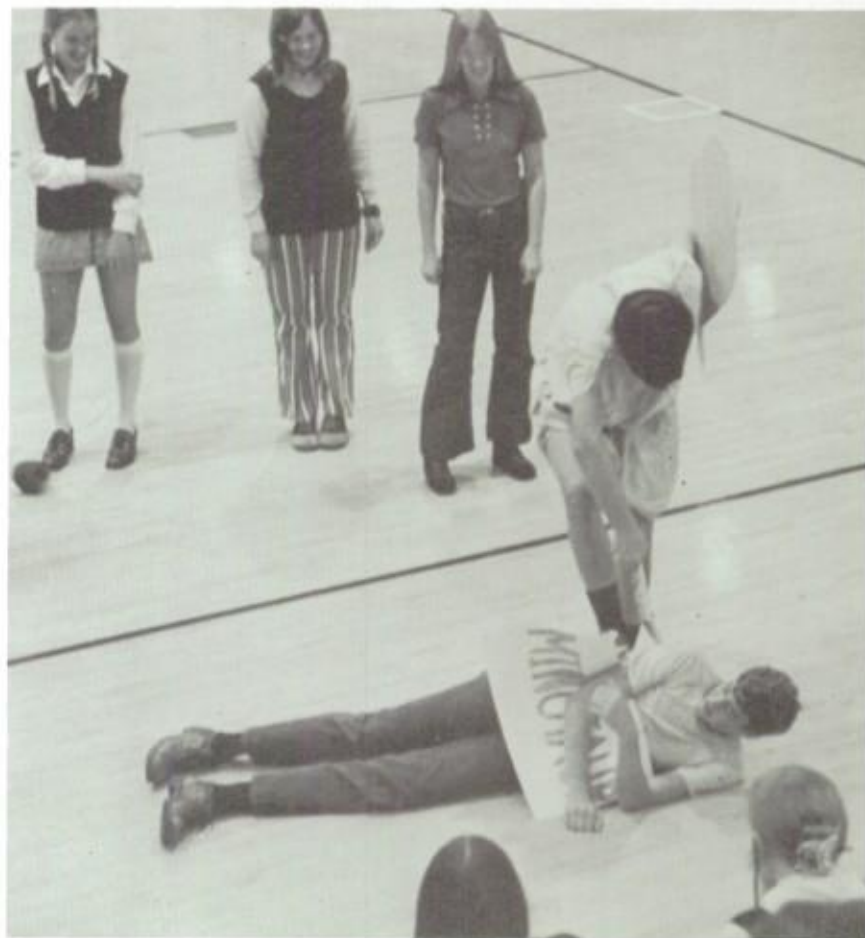

A victory welcome by sweetheart Ariadne after slaying the Minotaur by Theseus or other scenes from Roman mythology were the subject of skits performed at Latin Club meetings.

Over eighty members covenanted their hand on the torch of civilization in the modern world showing belief in the usefulness of Latin. Their sponsor was Mrs. Grace Judd.

During the year, tests were given in fields related to Latin. The three highest in all fields of each year taken were named local winners. These entered state contests at the IJCL convention at Indiana University in May.

An initiation including a trip to the "lower world" and a spring Roman Banquet for members and parents were highlights of the year. An "eggs to apples" full-course dinner was enhanced by entertainment, skits and gladiatorial fights.

Thus it seems, "Latina Est Lingua Viva" (Latin is a living language).

Theseus slaying the Minotaur is a scene from a mythological skit given by Latin Club members at their monthly meeting. Songs and contests are also conducted following the business meeting.

Quiet, Chess Club Zone Ahead

If while walking past the biology room on a Tuesday night, you might have noticed two people quietly peering at sixteen pieces on a checkered board between them, it was probably just another Chess Club meeting. This organization, still in its first year here at Central, is available to anyone who either wants to learn how to play or wants to test their already known skill against other club members.

This year a tournament was played. During their club gatherings the members participated in playoffs, with the winners battling against chess clubs of other schools.

The sponsor of Central's "Checker-Board Square Club" was Mr. Gerald Rose. '72-'73 officers were: John Reid, President; Jay Dill, Vice-President; and Bill Ireland, Secretary-Treasurer.

Front Row: Mr. Rose, Randy Ozbun, Jerry Hinnefeld, Warren Forgey, Nick Duffy, Doug Lucas, Ray Toon, Jay Dill, Willie Weddell,

BC Seniors Plan Teaching Career

To be a member of the Future Teachers Association, one must be a Senior and have some plans for teaching as a profession.

FTA meetings were held during activity period on the third Thursday of each month. The members were given a chance to discuss their future plans in relation to college, tell about colleges that they have visited, and talk about what they plan to major in. As many Seniors, some were not sure of their vocation, but others had already decided.

The BCHS chapter of FTA was sponsored by Mr. Orville Lubker and Mr. Andrew Houston. Due to the lack of membership, there were only two offices elected, President, Larry Bonebright, and Secretary, Diane Stuckwisch.

Members of FTA listen to Mr. Neal, Mrs. Tormoehlen, and Mr. Reynolds tell what courses they took in college and with what ease or difficulty they obtained a job.

Fourth Quarter Proves Hectic

As we join the BCHS Science Club members at the coat check, we hear, "Oh no, it's the fourth quarter!" This may be just one of the many cries coming from behind the table separating the mad rush of fans and students from their coats. The Science Club sponsored a coat check during each home basketball game, which served as the club's money making project, excluding the collection of dues. The money which was earned from the coat check was used to buy plaques for the Senior members and were presented to them in the Spring.

Each month, a committee of three students was appointed to secure a guest speaker for the meeting. People who talked were employees of the Jackson County Hospital, Marion-Kay, and other local county businesses.

To become a member of the Science Club, a student must be a Junior or Senior, and be in a chemistry or physics class.

Senior Cathy Riley, during one of the home basketball games, retrieves her coat from the Science Club coat check. The coat check is the only money-making project of the club.

Booster Council Given Trial Run

Seeing Booster Club members wearing red or black capes, walking around the top of the gym at halftime of basketball games, one might wonder if a new fad had occurred. The wearing of capes was started again to give the club's section an organized look.

Another happening was the founding of a Booster Council, composed of two members from each class and the officers of the club. The purpose of the council was to set up guidelines for Booster Club. Council members were Karen Pferrer and Mark Sommers. Seniors; Katie Cartwright and Mark McClintock, Juniors; Becky Bates and Anne Schneider, Sophomores; Jim Brown and Julie Hackman, Freshmen; and Patty Sherrill and Mike Terrell, Eighth graders. Officers also on the council were John McCrary, President; Kathy Lambring, Vice-president; Bill Ireland, Secretary; and George Spray, Treasurer. Faculty members were Mr. David Roessler, Booster Club sponsor, and Mrs. Terry Tormoehlen.

Volumes Serve A Twofold Purpose

John Reid, student librarian, waiting to sign hall passes, notices a clever Christmas decoration made by sponsor, Mrs. Sewell. John is the only male member of Librarians Club this year.

One way for a girl to get that certain boy's attention was by joining the Librarians' Club. If it wasn't enough to just sign his hall pass or stamp the date due on his book, she took more drastic measures. While she was on the step stool putting books back on the shelves, she could drop a volume or two on his head.

Actually, membership in the Librarians' Club provided a chance for students to learn the techniques of operating a library. During their study hall or activity period, every member worked a week of each month to help Mrs. Sewell at the desk. But after all their "labors", they were rewarded with a field trip.

Monthly meetings were held in the library. Officers were President, Becky Hall; Vice-president, Teresa Norman; Secretary, Lisa Webber; Treasurer, Jane Brown; Reporter, Wanda Lucas; Recreation Leaders, Rhonda Perry, Diane Gambrel, and Sherry Wheeler.

"Indians" Are On News Warpath

With Central's Tee Pee Times staff of "Indians" constantly on the warpath covering sports events, taking opinion polls, and digging up news, their office sometimes looked as if it had been ambushed. But under the leadership of Editor-in-Chief, Betty Londot, and Assistant Editor, Janet Moyer, the eighteen tribal members usually got "The Tee Pee" back in order for the next edition.

Handling the wampum was the business manager, Nancy Terkhorn, while Carol Wischmeier exchanged "smoke signals" with other schools. As sponsor of the paper, Mr. Dick Issacs served as a sort of "medicine man", giving advice and helping correct any ailments which arose with pictures, heads, captions, articles, or layouts during the production of the paper. "Heap big" helpers to the newspaper staff were the remaining tribal members of ten little reporters, two maiden typists, and a photographer brave.

With a stack of Tee Pee Times issues "hot off the press", Seniors Betty Londot and Sue Armstrong distribute copies to students' lockers.

Christmas Caroling Party Held

"To help its members have a better understanding of the home," is one member's definition of the Future Homemakers of America club. A national organization formed for high school girls enrolled in a home economics course, FHA was sponsored by Mrs. Harrison and by Miss Allen.

The members had a caroling party and also donated money to a school for the blind.

President Janice Robertson stated that her most memorable experiences in FHA was being chosen to attend a state district meeting. Other officers were Rhonda Perry, Vice-President; Kathy Benter, Secretary; Tonia Treadway, Treasurer; Lora Fish, Parliamentarian; Debbie Deitz, Reporter; and Cheryl England, Recreation Leader.

Lora Fish, Nancy Robison, and Cathy Crider, members of FHA, have the task of decorating the home economics department's display case for Christmas. Besides FHA members, the home-ec students also display their class projects in the showcase.

Girls Compile Points For Awards

Everything was very quiet. Rena Achelpohl, Girls' Athletic Association president, rose and announced slowly and dramatically, "The theme for the Christmas Dance is . . . 'Nights in White Satin,'" and the plans for the big event of the Girls Athletic Association were underway. The dance, held on December 16, came in the midst of an academic year of busy activity for members of the club.

Mrs. Marsha Thompson and Mrs. Terrye Tormoehlen supervised GAA meetings. The sportsheads, all Seniors, kept records of the points of each girl in her group.

Girls participated in games for awards as well as fun. Passing skill tests meant receiving a pin the first year and the second year, a letter. Third year members who passed received charms, while fourth year members who passed the written volleyball test, received a plaque.

In the spring of the year, the girls voted on whether to have a pitch-in banquet or picnic and at the event a candidate was chosen for the Jackson County Fair Queen Contest.

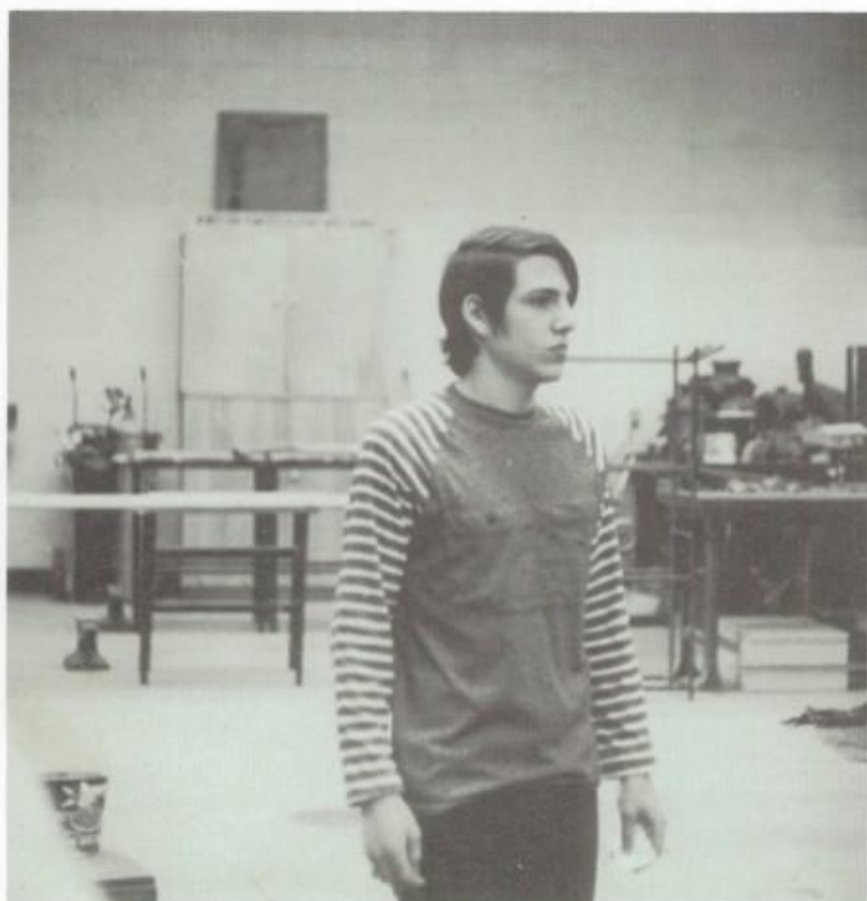

At the weekly meetings the girls who are divided in three shifts play volleyball, kickball, and softball. They participate in gymnastics and go to Brunswick Starlite Bowl in Seymour for bowling.

FFA Achieves National Recognition

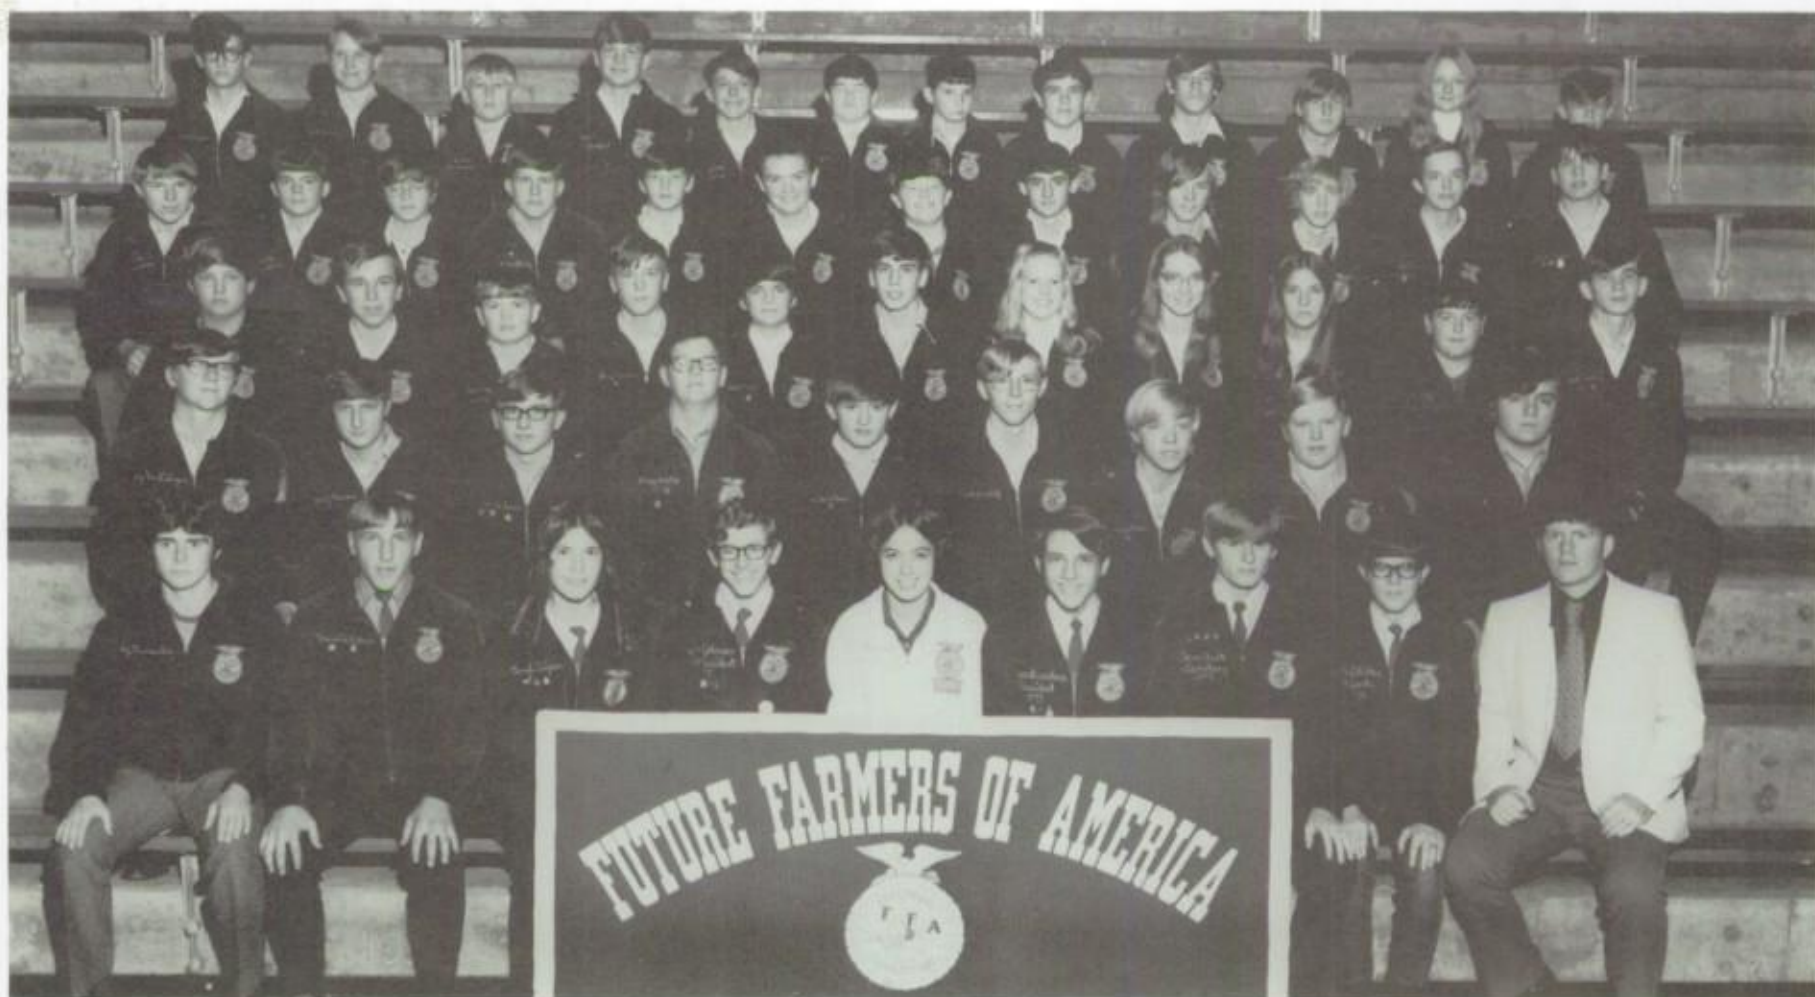

Winning just seems to come natural for the Brownstown FFA Chapter. FFA members were named a National Gold Emblem Chapter, were highest in the State Soil Judging Competition, and received a first place ribbon for their float in the Fort Vallonia Day Parade.

FFA officers were Wayne Burcham, President; Tony Johnson, Vice-President; Tom Ault, Secretary; Cheryl Teipen, Treasurer; Marvin Peters, Sentinel; Ray Weston, Reporter; and Gary Hunsucker, Chaplain.

The motto of the FFA is "Learning to do. Doing to learn. Earning to live." To coordinate with this motto, FFA members strived to develop co-operation, good citizenship, and leadership by participating in the Junior Fire Marshall program. Members distributed fire hats to students in area elementary schools.

"Big Red" Machine Holds Coke, Too

Before, one might have heard students say, "The Student Council never does anything," but councils this year and last have proved that statement to be false. The Council brought about many changes and privileges. Among them were the students' coke machine, the opening of the dances to first and second year BCHS alumni, and the lifting of the restriction on motorcycles. Also, the Student Council constructed a suggestion box for the students, so that they could have issues brought up before the Student Council.

Along with working for new rights and privileges, the Council bought and installed a sundial. The dial was dedicated to Central alumni who gave their lives while serving their country.

Leading the group as President was Mike Smith. Mr. Dickie Isaacs and Mr. Andrew Houston, sponsors, along with other officers Grant Schneider, Vice-President; Mark Sommers, Treasurer; and Jeanne Reid, Secretary helped Mike and the Council to have a productive year.

The Student Council erected a sundial in memory of BC graduates who gave their lives for their country. A special assembly of the student body was held to dedicate the monument.

Visits, Not Skits, Are Now Hits

The Spanish Club at BCHS experienced a change during the 1972-73 school year. Instead of the monthly skits presented by individual classes, the meetings were highlighted by guest speakers who had traveled to various Spanish speaking countries. In their talks, they told of their memorable moments and places of interest that they had visited. Mrs. Thomas Nolting spoke of her trip to Peru and Mrs. C. H. Vinson spoke about her vacation in Spain.

Mrs. Moenich, the sponsor of the Spanish Club, worked with the officers, Karen Schleter, President; Pam Hutchinson, Vice-President; Linda Spurgeon, Secretary; Cheryl Mann, Treasurer; Becky Bates, Reporter; Jeff Brown and Katrina Spurlock, Sergeants-at-Arms; and Margo Thomas, Scrapbook official to try to present a broader view of the Spanish speaking countries to the members. The sponsor and officers also worked together in planning the annual fall initiation and the spring banquet.

Hi-Yers Adopt Little Brothers

Most high school boys probably wouldn't volunteer to babysit for a little brother, especially if the job was without pay. But maybe since the second year through fourth year Hi-Y members knew they wouldn't have to diaper and feed them, they selected a freshman. The purposes for choosing a brother were to initiate him and to find transportation for his date and him to the Spring dance.

The guest speakers, at the monthly meetings, ranged from ministers to businessmen. Hi-Y, a Christian association for boys, attempted to help build good moral standards and character among the boys.

Wayne Burcham, and his "Hi-Y brother," Denny Burcham talk about the Hi-Y dance. As a "big Brother," Wayne is responsible for his "little brother's" transportation to the dance.

Frivolity Reigns at Fall Initiation

"This little pig went to market, this little pig stayed home . . .," said Patti Bowling as she "counted" little pigs on sponsor Mrs. McCrary's toes, a part of a game played at the Commercial Club initiation last fall. Although members usually conduct themselves in a more dignified manner, the initiation each year is a time of fun for everyone.

At regular monthly meetings there were sometimes speakers from different kinds of offices who talked to the members about their duties and procedures. There were also films shown on how to run business more efficiently. During the spring of the school year, they went on a field trip to a place of business.

Commercial Club attempted to lead the students of business into different commercial areas. The main purpose was to create a chance for students to obtain information in the business field.

Band Active In Community Affairs

"Band! 'Ten-hut! Forward march!" Upon hearing these words, the members of high school band seized their instruments, gritted their teeth, and prepared themselves for a long hard practice.

Indiana University's Band Day, the Watermelon Festival, the Christmas parade, and football and basketball games were just a few samples of the active schedule lead by the Brownston Central High School Band. Under the direction of Mr. Keith Skelton, the band used its talents to set the mood for a variety of events.

Many musicians also prepared solos or ensembles for the annual district contest held at Clarksville.

Senior band members received a band sweater as a symbol of achievement for their eight years of band participation.

Jr. High Students

Strike Up Tunes

Hearing the fortissimo sound of an Eighth grade favorite "No Man Is an Island" one might believe he was hearing a 500 voice choir. Actually, you would be hearing the voices of the Junior High Choir practicing one of the songs selected by their director, Mr. Herbert Perry.

Highlighting the choir's year were the musical contests at Clarksville and their participation in the Winter and Spring Concerts.

Officers for the past year were President, Joyce Persinger; Vice-president, Julie Harbaugh; Secretary, Debbie Blevins; and Treasurer, Brad Lucas.

Under the direction of Keith Skelton, the Junior High Band offered the students a wide variety of musical fundamentals for years to come.

Any Junior High Band member wishing to further pursue the field of music had to learn the basic meters of directing music. In study hall one sometimes sees an eighth grader waving an imaginary baton and whispering "1, 2, 3."

The bandmen found that practice makes perfect as they worked toward their first concert in the Spring and instrumental contests.

Barb Flynn, a Seventh grader, directs the Junior High Band. In band, junior high students learn the fundamentals of directing and basic music terminology and are graded on it.

Christmas Concert Cancelled Twice

With a stretch of bad weather which forced school to be cancelled twice, it seemed that there would not be a Christmas Concert this year. However, the old saying goes, "Three time's charm," and on the third date the combined sixth period and activity period choirs and the Swing Choir finally performed their selection of Christmas music for parents and friends.

In addition to the Christmas concert, the choir presented a Spring Concert and participated in the baccalaureate service at graduation time. Many choir members also chose to compete in the district vocal contest at Clarksville in January.

Practicing weekly on Tuesday or Thursday evenings, members of the "Swing Choir," also directed by Mr. Perry, performed at convocations and provided entertainment of a lighter "pop" nature to various community organizations.

BC Scholars Present Award

Serving as an "electrician," Mr. Stuckwisch works on one of the signal lights for the College Bowl. A team of four people were chosen to attend the High-Q T.V. Show in Louisville.

The Brownstown Central National Honor Society is an honorary club comprised of juniors and seniors who have maintained a B- average for three consecutive semesters. Selection of members is based on leadership, character, and scholastic achievement.

The annual College Bowl was held in the winter so that a team of four people could be chosen for the High-Q show. The four teams competing in the College Bowl were made up of one member from each class. Questions which were used in the games were turned in by the teachers.

Each year the society presents each Senior member a plaque, showing his scholastic achievement. The society also presents the Outstanding Freshman Award to the freshman who has shown the most improvement in leadership and scholarship.

Quiver Staff Has First Workshop

Ray Toon and Margo Thomas "inspect" some pictures which Doug Pogge just finished printing for the yearbook.

Although school didn't begin until late August, the yearbook staff got a head start by holding a two day workshop. The Editors and guest speakers introduced knowledge they had obtained at summer workshops.

In the fall, staff members rehearsed as vampires, robots, and even surf boards for a convocation to kick off "Quiver Week." The convo was a spoof of TV advertisements entitled "Commercials '72." During the week, staff members tried to sell 700 books and win a $10 gift certificate. Joyce Greger won the certificate, and Doug Lucas was second. During "Quiver Week," each staff member had to wear a feather.

After the "feather days" were over, the staff began working to provide the students with the history of the school year. Pictures were taken, layouts drawn, and heads, copy and captions were written.

Under the direction of editor Marianne Turmail, and co-assistant editors Jan Wolka and Joyce Turmail, advised by Mrs. Molly Ferguson, the Quiver was completed and sent to the publishers.

Our Goal:

To Acquire Truth

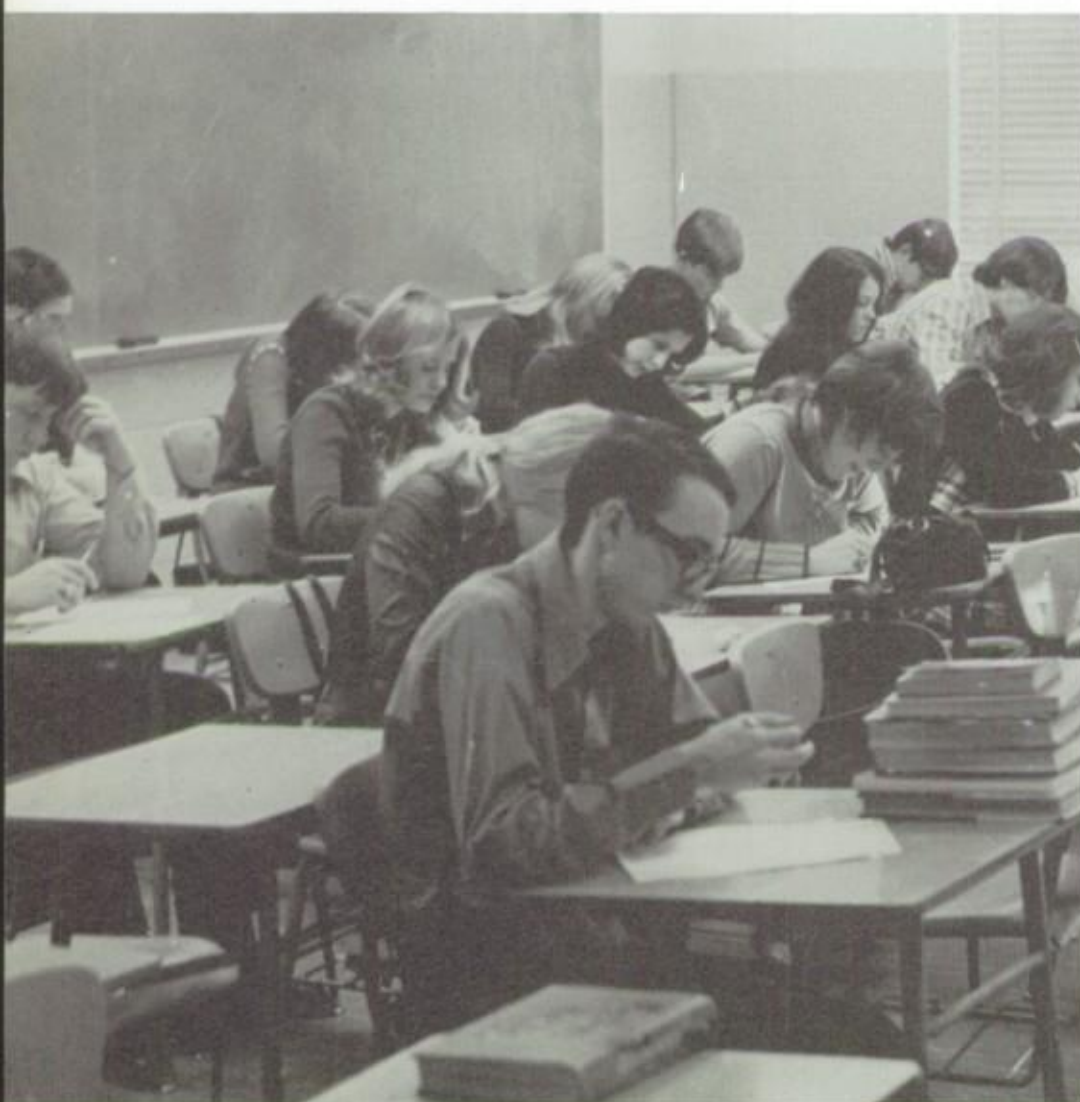

The curiosity of the Wise Men prompted them to follow the star. The curiosity of youth prompts them to question why life and society must be as they are.

Education is a search for truth and at Central students pondered for answers to their questions. In English students wondered why our language is as it is. They learned the events that made history and wondered what alternatives great men might have chosen that would have changed the shape of nations. As long as learning prompts people to seek more answers, education will have fulfilled its purpose.

Under the supervision of Mr. Furr, general math teacher, Tim Butler discovers the solution to a problem on the chalkboard.

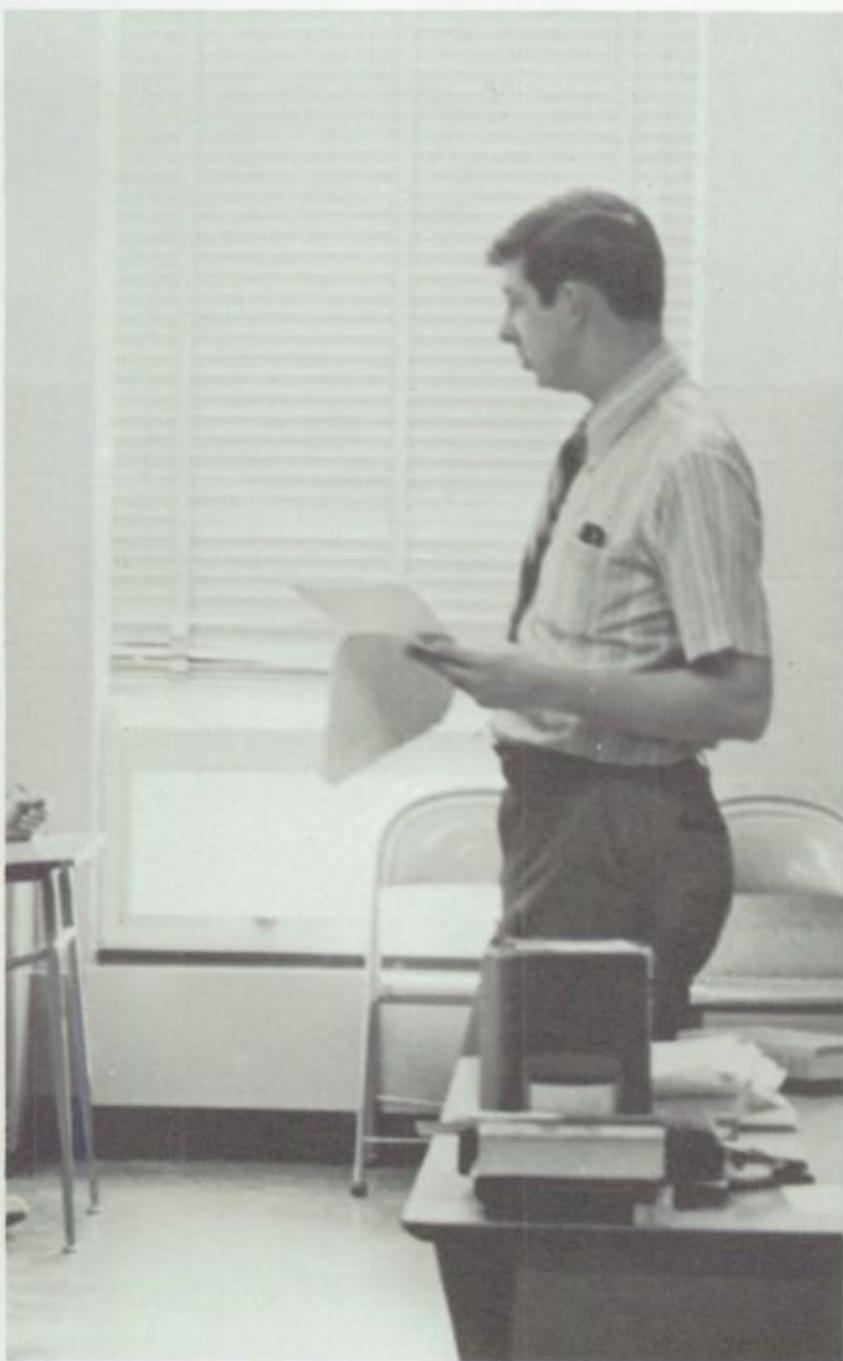

Having read the test instructions, these second period advanced algebra students of Mr. Stuckwisch begin solving the equations.

Mr. Charles Snyder's Eighth grade math class respond to his questions with a puzzled expression on their faces or raised arms.

David Clark, having just received his graded geometry test, appears to be shocked by the score he made—whether high or low.

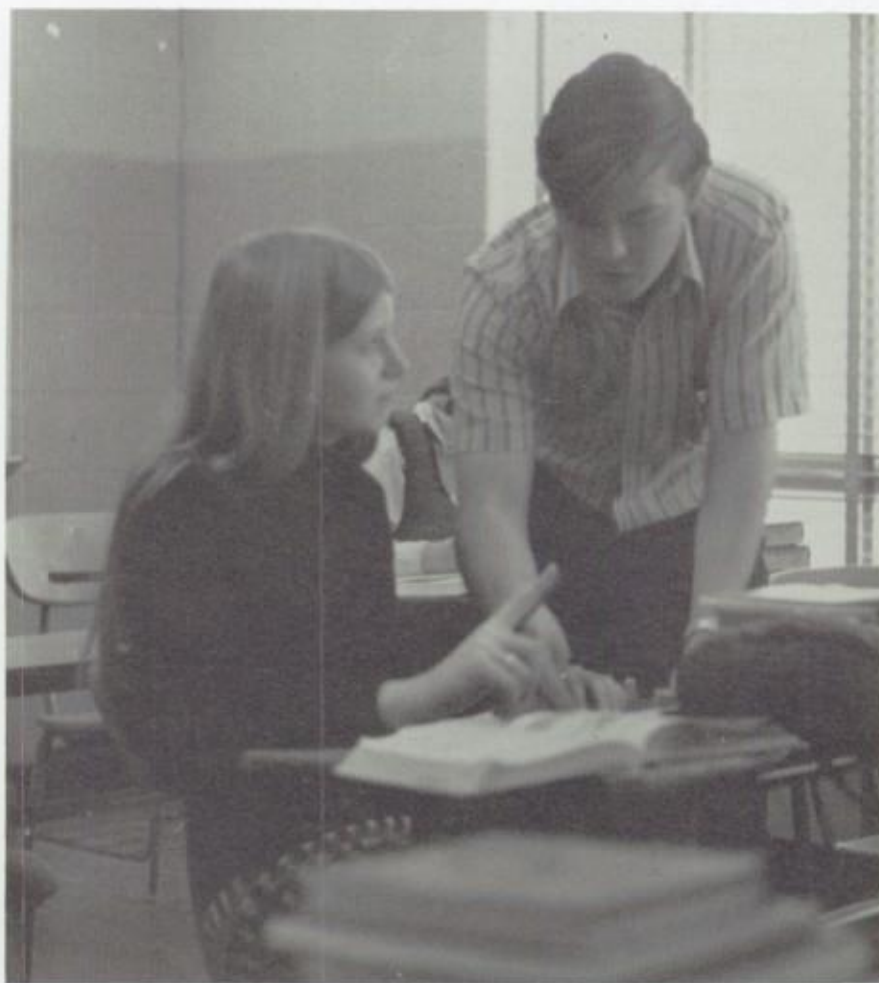

Mr. John Stuckwisch, after grading tests from his Senior math class, reads and explains the answers to some of the problems.

Chalk Dust Worn By Math Classes

One did not need ESP to distinguish a math student at Central. It was obvious after looking at the hands. The hands with chalk dust belonged to the Senior math student who had just finished solving a problem with sines or tangents. They were also owned by the advanced algebra student who had factored a polynomial. When these students were not visiting the chalkboards, they were watching their teacher "bite the dust" themselves.

Once the geometry teacher had convinced the confused student that beauty had nothing to do with acute angles or that π was not a dessert, he attempted to teach them how an indirect proof was written correctly. The algebra students learned and re-learned the procedures of solving equations while the Eighth grade and general math students were introduced to the basic operations of numbers. By the end of the year, the math students probably had also learned that the only way to become immune to the dust was to take another course in math the next year.

Attempting to clarify Julie Hackman's bewilderment concerning a Freshmen algebra problem is Jerry Hinnefeld.

Applicable Experiments Aid Students

When physic students faced the problem of comprehending first, second, and third class levers, an atmosphere of despair soon developed. Likewise, when chemistry students were introduced to the mole, they were dismayed to find that it wasn't the furry brown animal in their backyards. Confusion continued until the teacher announced a lab experiment for the next day. By applying the lab experiments, students began to understand the principle of simple machines, Avogadro's Law, and other concepts of theories.

After learning the fundamentals of the science course that they enrolled in, students sought to determine goals of previous scientists. BC students became aware of the fact that science is a never ending goal. However, most students still believe a mole is the animal in their backyards.

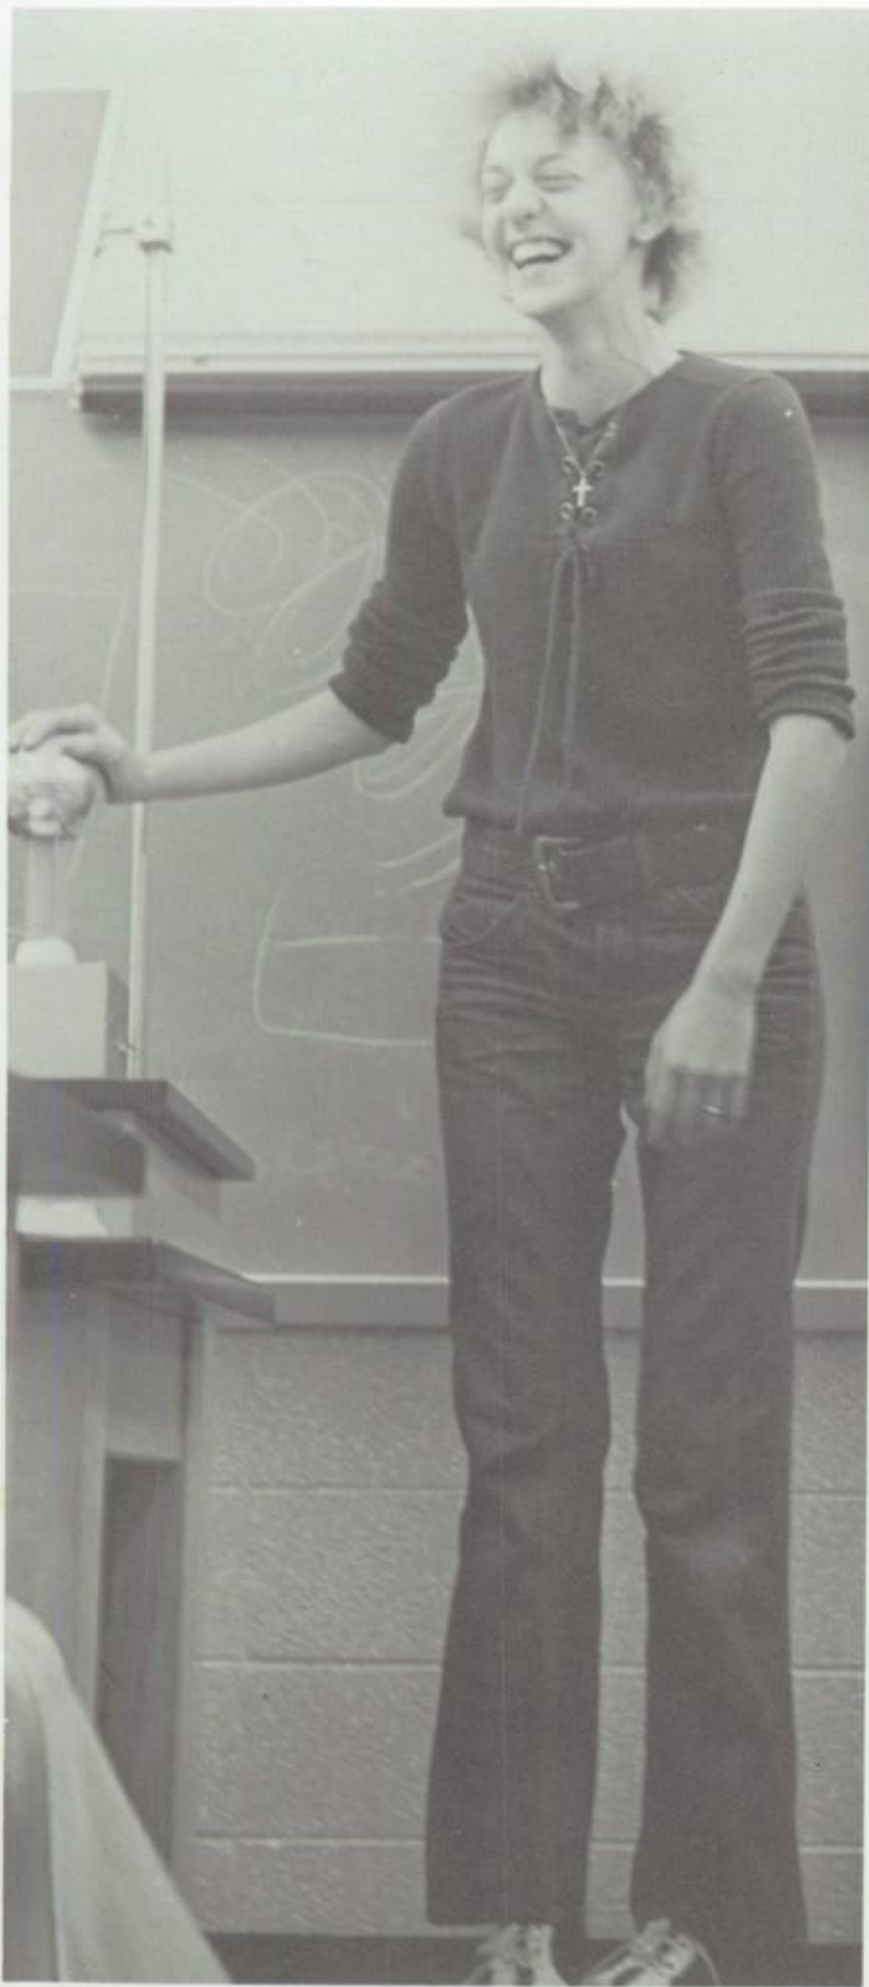

Vaughn Blevins and Ray Toon were presented the 1972 Grand Championship Science Fair award for their experiment on planaria. Any student enrolled in a science course second semester must complete a Science Fair project.

In Comprehending Science Studies

In an Eighth grade science class, Tracy Black poses as the guinea pig for an experiment. Placing her hand on the Van de Graaff generator produces static electricity and also results in a freaked-out hairstyle.

Jotting down accurate data for a first class lever experiment is an important step in lab procedure for George Spray. Physic students also experimented with the second and third class levers.

Learning Games Highlight Classes

When in the course of human education, it becomes necessary for new teaching methods, different kinds appear. These ideas come from the fact that a subject should be presented in an interesting manner.

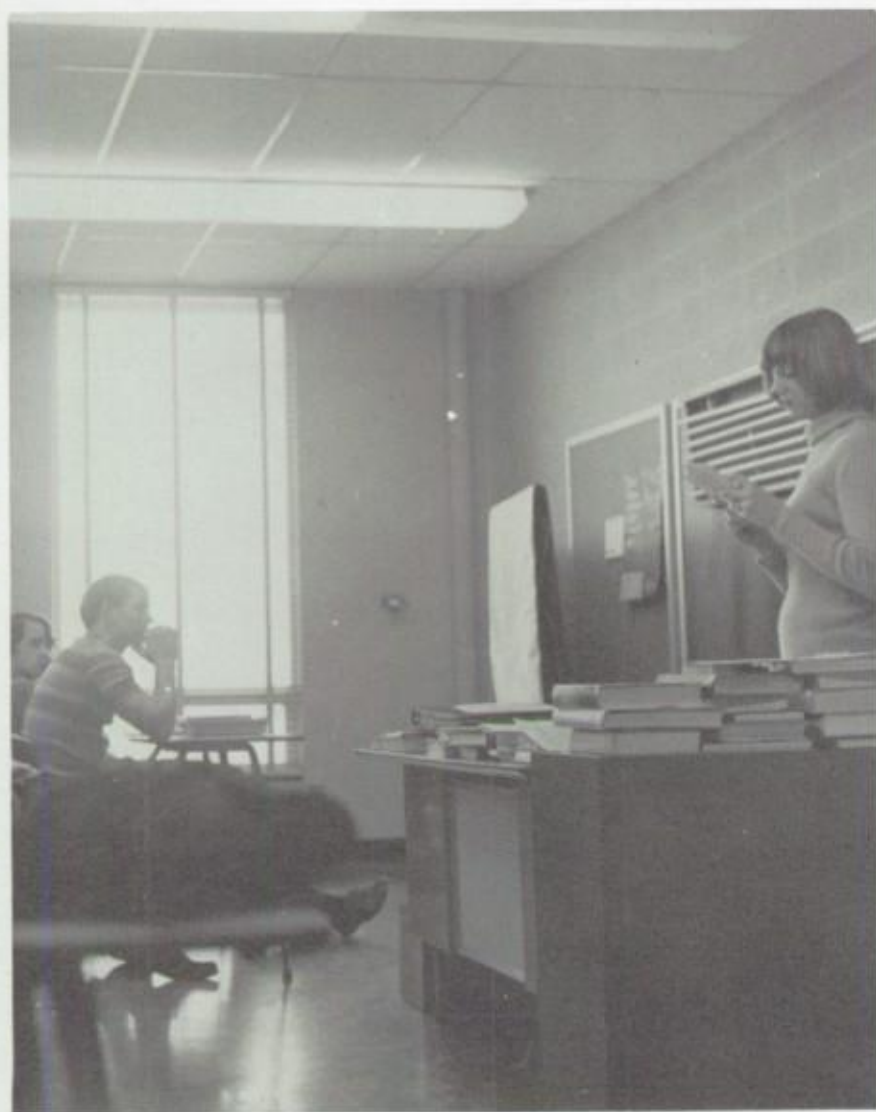

Learning games became popular in history classes as a way of remembering past and current events. Government and Junior history students also took a short field trip down to the court house to examine a voting machine and see how it worked. They then had a chance to vote in a mock election of the 1972 candidates. In geography, the coloring and labeling of maps helped students to learn the location of cities, countries, and bodies of water. Psychology and sociology classes observed the human mind by making experiments and playing reaction games.

With the added varieties of teaching methods, the learning process in social studies became more than just reading from a numerous paged text book.

Job Opportunities Are Available In

Preparing a decorated table with the aid of Mrs. Harrison for one of the holiday meals are these Sophomore home ec. students.

As one enters either the agricultural or the home economics departments, he might see students who may someday become prosperous farmers or busy housewives. Taking courses in these areas provide an understanding of domestic professions.

A new feature of the curriculum at BCHS was the Interdisciplinary Cooperative Education, or ICE, program. Those who participated in this attended required classes in the mornings and worked for local businesses during the afternoons. The program provided opportunities for them to gain valuable business experience.

The home ec. department is equipped with modern appliances and utensils which make the homemaker's job easier. This year a new instructor, Miss Allen, helped to teach the fundamentals of sewing. Besides participating in class activities, the girls decorated bulletin boards and practiced working with home furnishings.

The equipment in the agricultural department is characteristic of the new developments in the farming industry. Here students were concerned with not only the basic ideas of agriculture, but they were also taught the latest methods of farm production. This department also had a new instructor, Mr. Stephenson.

Members of the child development class, taught by Mrs. Burcham, display their baby clothes as a reminder of their early years.

Of Communication

Look, Betty, look. See the book. Read, read. The story is good. Ha ha. Shakespeare is funny. Read, Read.

Shake, Tom, shake. Tom is afraid. Tom must talk to the children at school. Relax, Tom. Smile, smile. Talk, talk, talk.

Write, Susan, write. Write the theme. Tell about Bunny. Tell about Pony. Tell about Bunny. Indent. Good girl, Susan.

Read, read. Talk talk. Write, write.

No matter how simply it is stated, the study of the English language is communication. It is communication with the past world through the reading of literature and with the future world through the revelation of ideals. Most of all it is communication with the present world through writing and speaking.

At Central students take three years of English. Some Seniors, usually the college-bound, take a fourth year. Seniors may also take speech. The total program is designed to acquaint students with genre of literature and give them background to better communicate.

Senior Mike Shelton, a student of English composition, finishes vocabulary exercises before writing an argumentative theme.

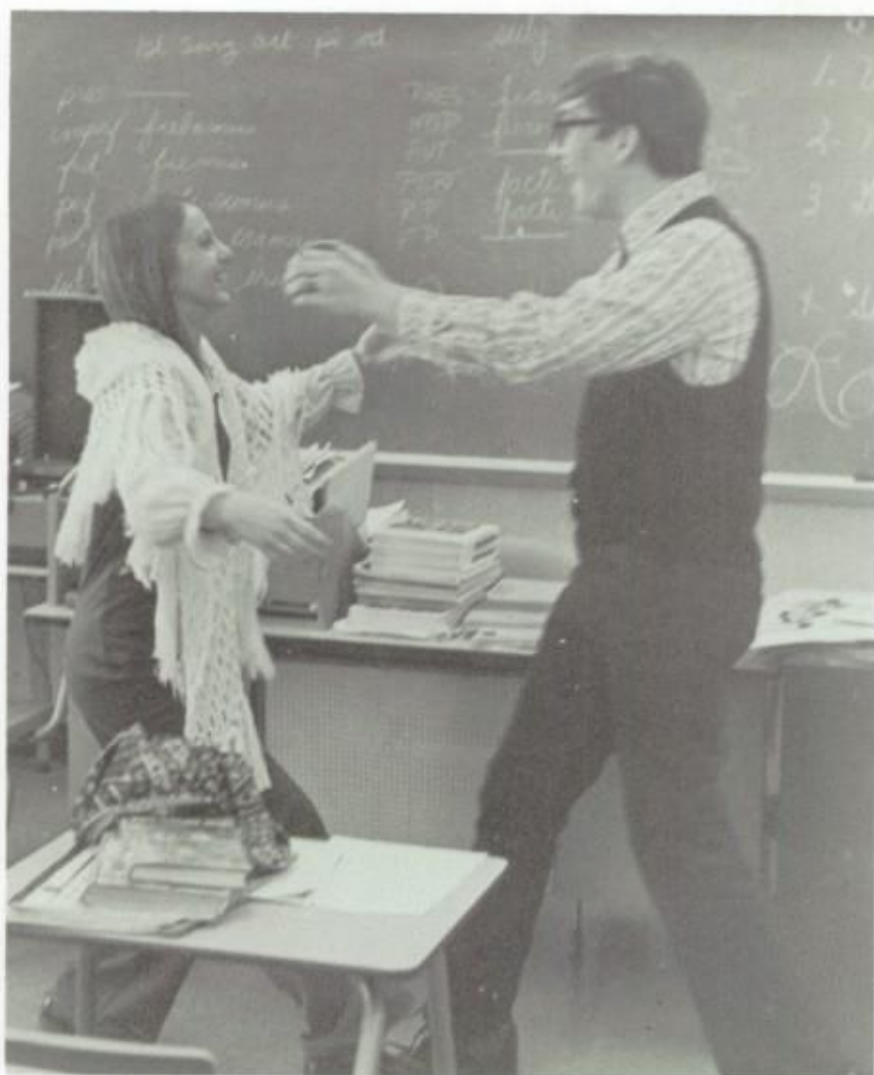

Hercules Saves A

"This is a job for Hercules" might have been the thought of a foreign language student during the course's first week. In the first attempt to decipher a translation, one may have felt communication with the modern world had been cut off. But then as if Zeus had intervened, one realized that many English words were derived from Latin and Spanish is a widely spoken language.

The communication gap narrowed as vocabulary and grammatical rules were mastered. Using modern teaching aides—filmstrips, tapes, and records—one gradually became familiar with the language. Information of the customs, history and religion of the Romans or Spaniards was valuable in other subjects.

Whether by good luck, Hercules' magic ring or an inborn knowledge concerning the language, one survived the year and could then decide about taking another language course.

Musicians Apply Phillipp's Principles

In a letter to encourage a young pianist, Isidor Philipp, professor of the piano forte at the National Conservatory in Paris, expressed the following statements. "Practice slowly, . . . with supple hands, . . . with different rhythms, different attacks. Practice with patience—and always with patience."

Isidor Philipp's remarks could also have been asserted to include BC's instrumentalists and choristers. While practicing for vocal or instrumental contests, performers experimented with different rhythms, tones, and techniques to ascertain true qualities; and in their daily drilling, music-minded students struggled to practice patiently, although sometimes vainly.

Mr. Perry advises nervous singers of tone quality, breath control, and diction as they practice in their warm-up rooms before auditioning for the District Vocal Contest at Clarksville.

Students Reveal Artistic Abilities

Once upon a time there lived BC art classes, under the direction of Mr. Wharton Reynolds, who revealed their many artistic abilities. They displayed these hidden talents by using such ordinary articles as straws, foil, and clay. Then, almost as if they held the wand of Cinderella's fairy god-mother, with glue or paint, they transformed items into creations such as pottery, sculptures, ceramics, sketches, and paintings of all varieties. Also, they created block-lettered posters for the Science Fair. Actually, hours of effort went forth to complete these creations, rather than the wave of a magic wand.

Having gained this experience, some of the students may go on to be successful in one of the many fields of art and someday live happily ever after in their paintbox in the sky.

Mr. Reynolds is attempting to show Mike Kellner possible improvements he could make to better his drawing while Tim Lawson (left)

Business Students Climb "Ladder"

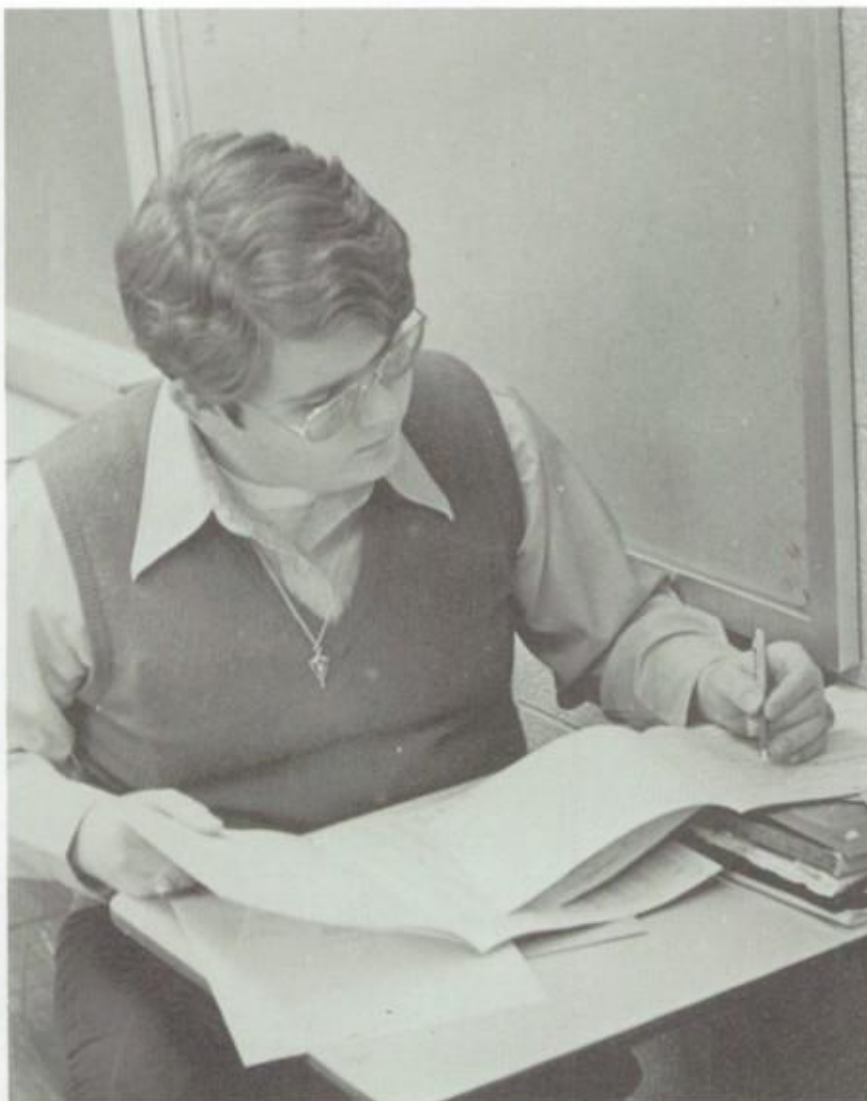

The transition from the frustrated child who tries to type and jams the typewriter keys, to the trained but somewhat nervous graduate applying for a first job in a business field is a long one up the ladder of education and experience. A background in business education is essential in order for this transition to take place.

Central's curriculum offers a wide selection of courses to those students wishing to major in business. As early as the Sophomore year, students may take business arithmetic. Juniors may take typing and shorthand. To help broaden the skills they have already learned, Seniors may select business English, business law, bookkeeping, or office practice, or may choose to take more shorthand or typing. Offerings in all of these courses help provide the student with background for advanced technical training or the background needed to obtain a job in the business world.

ther explains why the master had to be wet with the solution before the actual printing.

Shop, Printing Yield "Fine Arts"

Industrial arts, although not normally associated as such, is actually almost a "fine art." The skill, practice, and patience needed to produce a fine piece of furniture or a properly printed page are similar to the mastering of a musical repertoire or the creation of a fine oil painting.

At Central, shop courses are offered to boys from the Eighth grade to the Sophomore year. This is a continuation of the shop program which is begun at the Seventh grade level.

This year students took printing during the second period. The basics of offset and letterpress printing were studied and practiced.

Instructors in the industrial arts department were Mr. Darrell Duffy and Mr. Robert Smith.

The total program was designed to take boys even those with academic handicaps and teach them the mechanics needed to develop their skills in the industrial arts field sometimes enabling them to turn out "fine" works of "art."

Future Drivers Jangle Nerves

Mr. Duffy begins one of the many classroom lectures based on highway safety habits and courtesy to other drivers.

Jangled nerves and prayers often accompany the members of Central's drivers' education classes as the climb behind the wheel for their first drive of many in the semester-long class.

The classes are open to students 15 years or older. Mr. Duffy teaches the course during the school year and is joined in the summer by Mr. Hinkle and Mr. Roessler. Students spend 30 class hours learning the rules, courtesies, and techniques of good driving. Each student must also have 6 hours driving experience in a dual-controlled car. The requirements of reading the drivers' manual, taking tests, preparing an accident notebook, and accomplishing the chore of changing a tire must also be met.

After the course is complete the student driver is eligible to drive with his parents with his permit and will be able to get his drivers' license 6 months early.

Max Brown, Tom Goodman, and Dennis Stuckwisch work during study hall preparing their newsclippings for their notebooks. Each student must collect pictures of auto accidents and mount them in the notebooks as a requirement of the course.

Phys. Ed. "Fits"

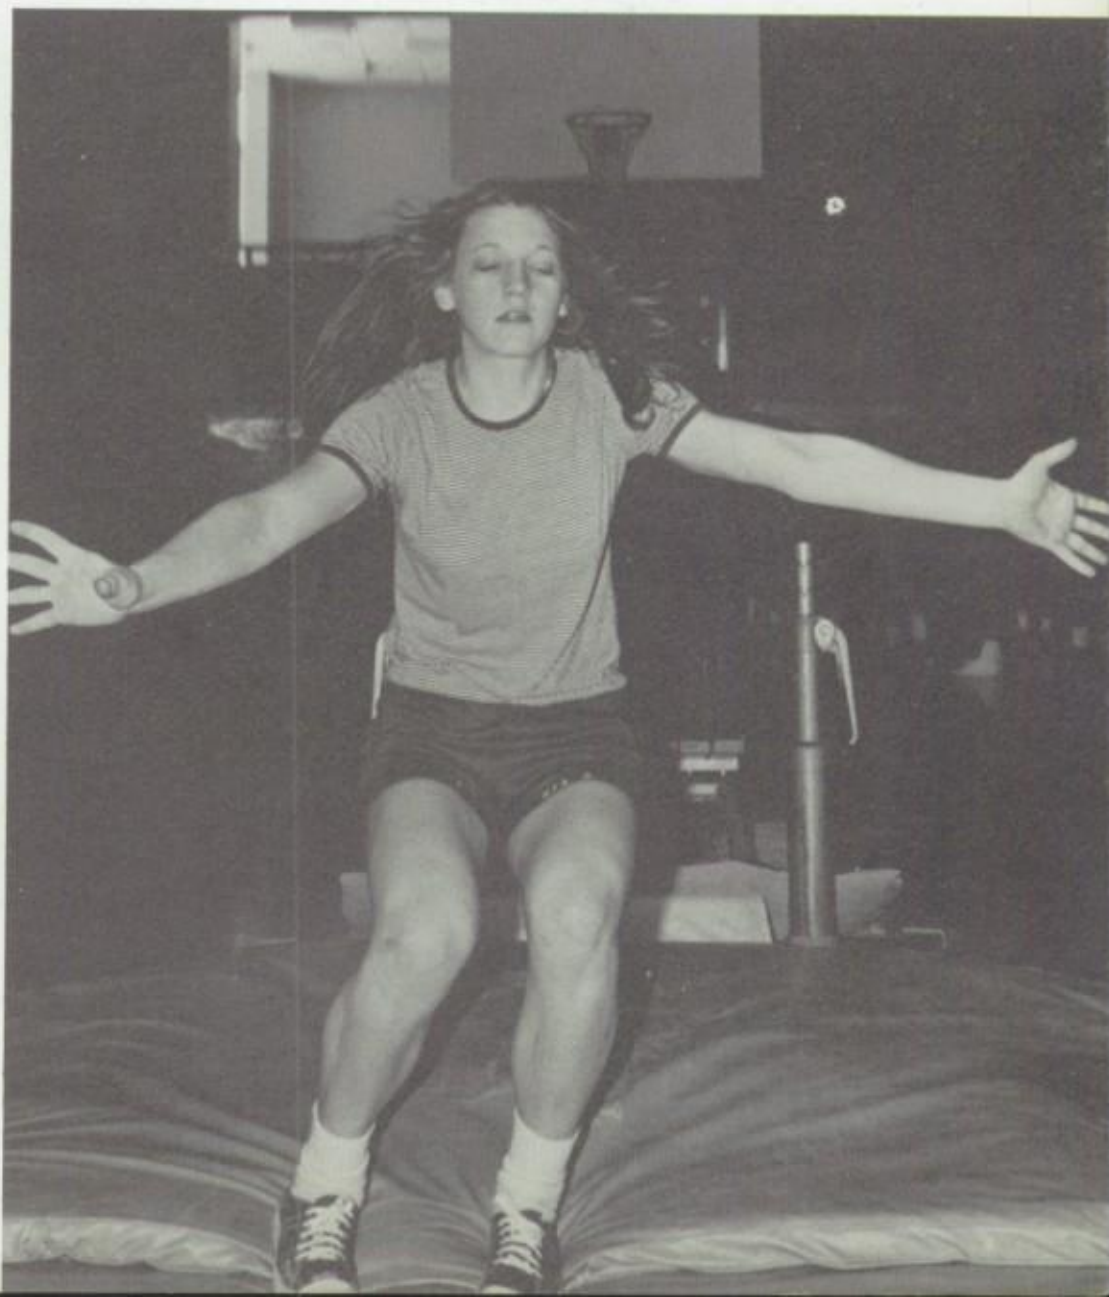

Central Athletes

Many students found relief in the switch from mental athletics in the classroom to physical exercise in the gym. Approximately 500 eighth grade, freshman, and sophomore Centralites were enrolled in physical education in addition to those Junior and Senior girls in an advanced class.

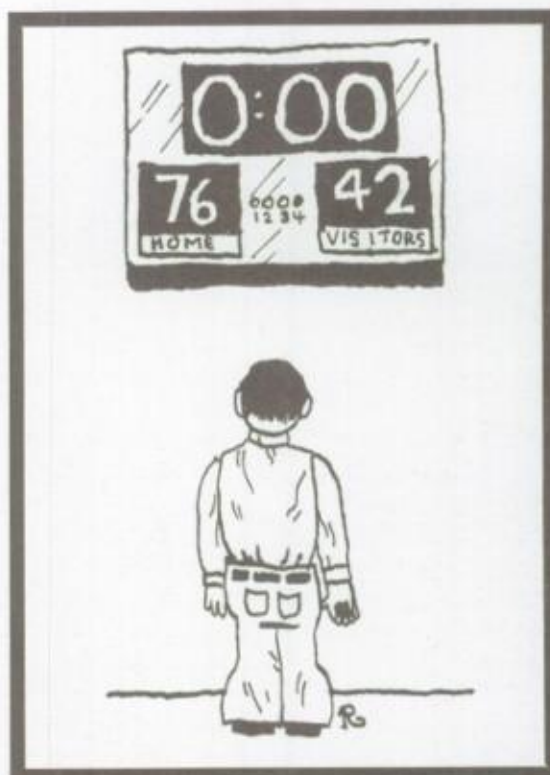

Besides being a welcome change of pace, the classes provided a chance to test one's physical fitness and learn new skills. Some students enjoyed the camaraderie of team sports such as soccer or basketball; others preferred "doing their own thing" in track events or an intense practice session at the parallel bars.

After an invigorating exercise session, a shower and changing back to "civilian" clothes brought young athletes back to the world of textbooks and brainpower . . . at least until the next time they heard, "Fall in!"

Junior Debbie Darlage completes a successful flip over the horse. Co-ordination and practice are essentials in enabling students to execute graceful and accurate maneuvers.

Our Goal:

To Anticipate Victory

The goal of a competitor is to be victorious. But to be a true victor is more than scoring more points than the opponent. The team needs to go into the game anticipating a victory for the school, the fans, and themselves. The fans also need to expect victory in order to have the spirit and backing the team needs to feel they are strongly supported.

This year the classes competed in Spirit Stick Contests to promote spirit among students. Each class prepared skits and made posters assuring the team of their desire to have the Braves to be victorious.

Jr. Gridders Remain Undefeated

"Despite having the wettest season I can ever remember in my years of coaching, the guys came through undefeated," remarked Coach Neal. He also stated that it was remarkable how the Junior Braves adjusted to unfavorable weather conditions and how playing most of their games in the mud did not seem to hamper their spirit or drive.

Team work was the name of the game for the Junior High Football Team this year. The Eighth grade players were undefeated in seven games with a 6-0-1 record, while the Seventh grade team did almost as well with a 3-1-1 record.

Leading ground gainers for the junior high squad were Chuck Conrad, Eighth grader, and Brian Autry, Seventh grader. Randy Delph missed part of the football season with a knee injury, but was the leading ground gainer at the time of his injury. Team captains were Randy Delph and Mark Norman.

Team coaches, Mr. Donal Neal and Mr. Edmund Loudon, felt that the success that the team had, can be attributed to the sincere effort each boy put forth.

Losing Season With 5-15 Record

Senior Gary Terkhorn pulls down this rebound on his fingertips as teammates Paul Spurgeon and Mark Sommers move to his aid.

The reserve team watches as the Varsity Braves run through one of their warm-up drills during an after school practice session.

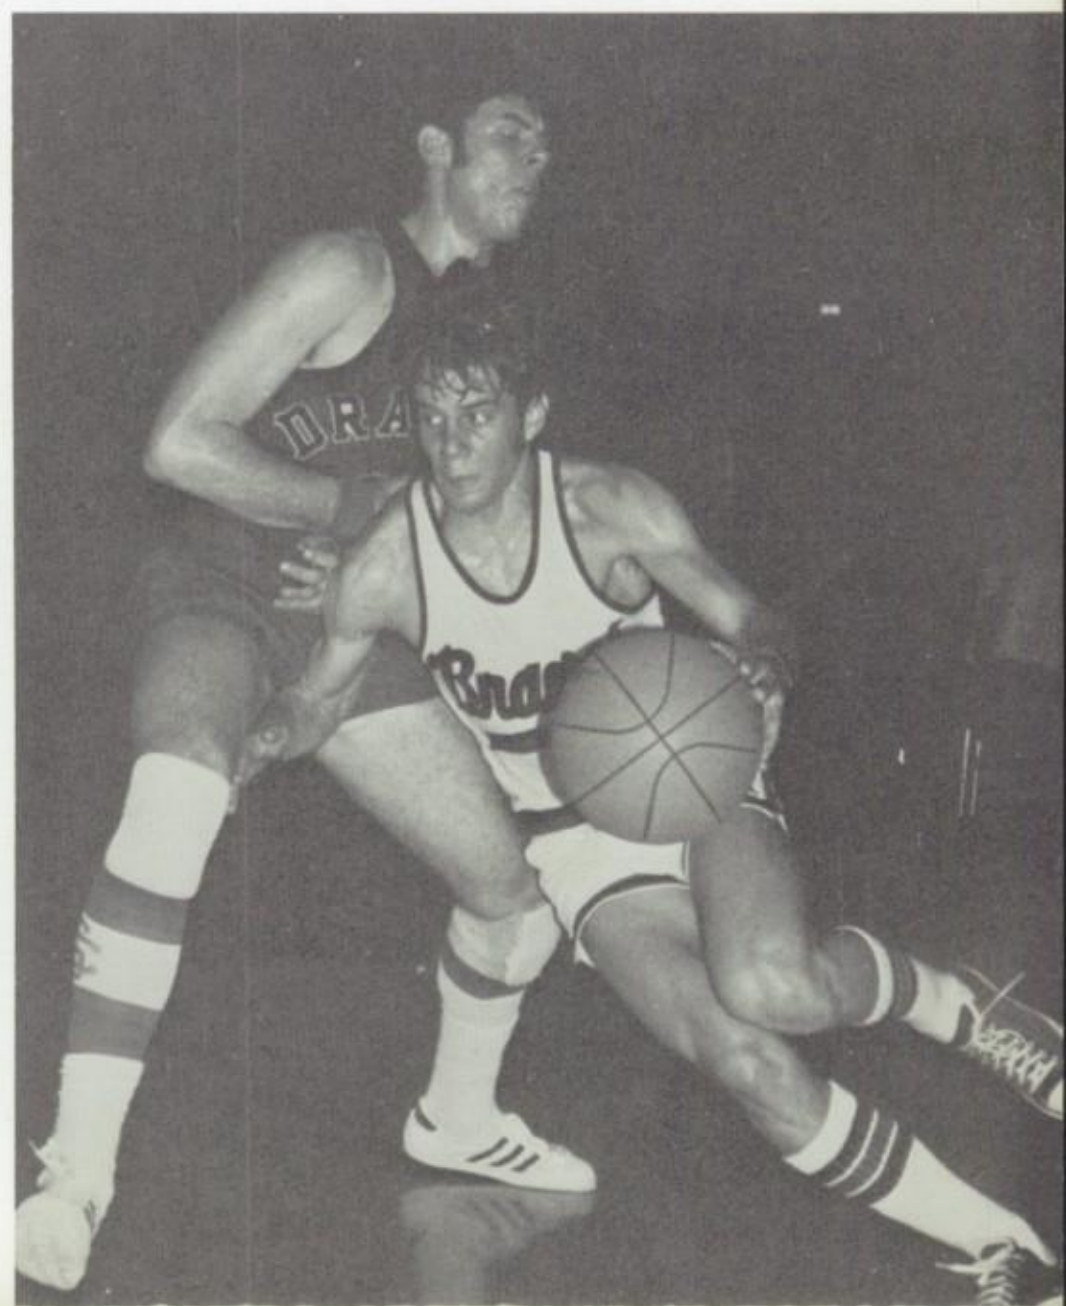

The 1972-73 Varsity Braves finished the season with a record of 5 wins and 15 losses. The six returning lettermen to the Varsity Basketball squad this year were Seniors Tom Ault, Jerry Disque, Nick Duffy, Mark Sommers, and Gary Terkhorn and Junior Mike Weaver. Although there were six returning lettermen, the 72-73 season was not a winning one for the Central Braves.

The middle of the season confronted the Braves with a tough schedule, both on the road and at home. Contests with Scottsburg, Jennings County, Floyd Central, and Silver Creek were losses for the cagers, but determination was shown on the playing floor. Despite these losses, the Springs Valley Holiday Tourney proved to be thrilling for BC fans. The Braves won their first game, defeating North Harrison 55-54, only to lose to Springs Valley, the host team, 85-48 in the championship game.

Victories against Corydon, Brown County, Clarkesville, and West Washington also highlighted BC's season.

Reserves Experience Losing Season

"C'mon ref, jump ball!" might be the thought of Marty Fleetwood as he and Jon Robison watch Doug Ault struggle with a Dragon.

The 1972-73 Junior Varsity basketball squad ended their season with a record of 4 wins and 16 losses. The Junior Braves were coached by Louis Sommers.

Although not a winning season, the Braves did score victories over Bedford, in tournament play, West Washington, Paoli, and Charlestown. The reserve roster is as follows:

Freshmen Grab Tourney Trophy

Under the guidance of Coach James T. Blevins, the Freshman Braves boasted a record of 12 wins and three losses. Playing under a rough schedule the frosh defeated Columbus North 50-39, Scottsburg 59-46, Seymour 55-42, Jennings County 65-56, and Bedford 57-52. Other victories were Salem 83-50, Austin 71-44, Shawswick 73-52, Springs Valley 34-33. Two losses were split to Seymour and Scottsburg in the dual-game series. The fighting frosh also captured the Springs Valley Freshman Tournament.

Coach Blevins stated that the team showed excellent potential and fundamental discipline, and that they were very unselfish and cooperative both in practice and on the playing floor. He also said the team members helped the whole unit by competing with themselves to improve.

Jr. Braves Have Winning Season

The Eighth grade Braves were coached by Stephen Schrink during the 1972-73 season and wound up the year with a record of 7 wins and 6 losses. Victories for the little Braves this season were Mitchell, 56-40, Austin, 47-36, Shawswick, 62-26, Seymour, 52-33, Salem, 71-46, Orleans, 80-57, and West Washington, 45-33.

Randy Delph was the leading rebounder and leading scorer for the Eighth grade team with 128 rebounds and 201 total points with an average of 14.4 points per game. Mark was second in scoring with 196 total points and a 14.0 points per game average. Jim Disque was team captain for the year and also the leading free throw shooter, at 63%. Asked about the teams' performance, Coach Schrink commented, "We played well, but we lost some close ball games. The boys have a good team attitude, and potentially some of these boys are bright prospects."

Cindermen Boast 36-2 Season

Brownstown Central's varsity track team finished the 1971-72 season with a 36-2 regular season record, breaking many school records in the process. Record setters for the year were Roger Bowers in the shot put, (tied record); Mike Zink in the 220 yard dash; David McCrary in the low hurdles; Marvin Peters, Denny Myers, Danny Meahl, and Jack Lambert in the mile relay; Harry Beaty, Jack Lambert, Danny Meahl, and Denny Myers in the 880 relay; and Mike Weaver in the high jump. Mike also took first place in the sectional high jump which advanced him to the regional where he placed fifth.

Major victories of the season for the cindermen were the Brownstown Central Invitational Relays and the Mid-Southern Conference Relays, with a third place rating in the Mid-Southern Conference Meet. Central also handed losses to Columbus, Cory-don, Scottsburg, Clarksville, Salem, Charlestown, Silver Creek, and Floyd Central. Jack Lambert, a '72 graduate, was voted Most Valuable Runner by his teammates and was presented a trophy.

Providing the professional advice and guidance for the Braves were coaches Larry Hinkle and Edmund Loudon. Steve Wheeler and Pharis Philpot devoted their time to fulfill the duties of student managers.

Central's Freshman track team composed of eight members, placed first in the Mid-Southern Conference Freshman Meet and earned trophies at the Mid-Southern Conference Relays in the 880 and mile relay. The members also received a third in the Floyd Central Invitational Meet.

Freshman runners for the '71-72 season were Mike Zink, David McCrary, Jerry McMahon, Doug Ault, Jeff Nehrt, Tom Weaver, and Zachary Hall.

Jr. Trackmen Achieve Goal

Mark Norman watches Randy Delph give the high jump an extra effort in practice as he prepares for future track meets.

"Our goal this year," said coach Neal, "was to finish well in the conference meet." The junior high team really reached their goal during the '71-'72 season. The eighth grade team finished first in their meet while the seventh grade team finished second behind Austin.

Outstanding trackmen for the eighth grade team were Mervin Oakes, who set records in the 50 yard dash, the 220 yard dash, the long jump and tied a record for the 100 yard dash. Tim Warren also broke the record in the 1320 yard run.

Record breakers for the seventh grade were Chuck Conrad in the 440 yard dash and the 880 yard dash, Bill Thompson in the shot put, and Robert Martin, Randy Delph, Chuck Conrad, and Jeff Young setting a record in the 440 yard relay.

Team coaches Mr. Donal Neal and Mr. Stephen Schrink stated that the 220 was a new event added to the seventh grade agenda and also that they were pleased with the dedication and hard work put forth by the junior trackmen.

BC Harriers Improve Season

The '72-'73 BC Harriers improved their season from last year, picking up victories in two dual meets and one triangular meet, and placing 17th in the Columbus Sectional. The harriers also placed 3rd in the BCHS Invitational and finished 7th in the Mid-Southern Conference Meet at Springs Valley. The team's total season record was 34 wins and 51 losses.

The course was moved away from the school campus to the Hickory Hills Golf Club this season, which added many more hills and obstacles. The length of the cross country race was also changed by the Indiana High School Athletic Association from 2 to 2½ miles this season.

The Freshmen harriers finished 3rd in the Mid-Southern Conference Meet, which was also held at Springs Valley.

Jerry Chadwell was elected Most Valuable Player by his teammates. Returning lettermen for the year were Jerry Chadwell, Senior; Mike Wray and Glenn Durham, Juniors; and Doug Ault, Sophomore.

Glenn Durham takes a deep breath for just a little more power as he crosses the finish line and comes in first for Brownstown.

No Hit Shut-Out Highlights Season

The second Brownstown Central pitcher to achieve the distinction, Warren Anderson, a '72 graduate, pitched a mid-season no hitter in the game against Corydon. Ending the season with seven wins, Anderson received the Most Valuable Player award.

The Braves compiled a 6-3 record in conference play under the direction of the coaches, Mr. Robert Gambrel and Mr. Dave Roessler.

The Braves recorded wins over Floyd Central, Austin, Salem, Paoli, Scottsburg, Corydon, West Washington, and a season-ending double-header against Southwestern. With losses to Bedford, Silver Creek, Seymour, Charlestown, Clarksville, Madison Shawe, and a twelve inning, one run loss to Mitchell, they ended the season with a 9-7 record.

Leading the team with .348 was leading hitter, Jerry Jackson, who was graduated last spring. Tom Ault, a member of the Class of '73, was named to the All-Conference team as a second baseman.

Ricky Stuckwisch, a member of the Brownstown Central High School varsity baseball team, slides back to first base to beat the pitcher's vain attempt to throw him out.

Golfers Place 7th in Conference

The BCHS golf team ended the season seventh in the conference with a record of five wins and nine losses. The team was well-seasoned with all players having at least one year's experience.

The number one man on the team was Mark Sommers, a '71-72 Junior. Mark, who had a shooting average of 43.0, was also voted the Most Valuable Player by members of the team.

Number two low gross shooter was John Morgan, a '72 graduate, followed closely by John McCrary, a member of the Class of '73. Jim Tulledge and Paul Spurgeon were fourth and fifth men on the team.

At the end of this less-than-successful season, the team placed 21st in the sectional out of 25 teams. Despite their losing season Coach Louis Sommers feels that the situation looks hopeful for next season. In addition to the fact that the team gained valuable experience this year, Coach Sommers reports that 90% of the team will be returning. The most hopeful prospect of all is that the team can practice and have meets on the Hickory Hills golf course recently constructed in the Brownstown area.

John McCrary, a member of the Class of '73, shows his form as he makes a successful bunker shot as he gets in individual practice at the Hickory Hills Golf Club near Brownstown.

Pete's Panthers Go All The Way

Besides playing the regular games on Tuesday and Thursday nights, the Intramural members hosted two season-ending special games. In the final round of the championship tourney, Pete's Panthers, led by team captain Marvin Peters, defeated Gilbert Van Winkle's Forty Winks. Each member of the winning team received a medal for his participation.

Another highlight of the Intramural season was the win of the Faculty over the Senior All Stars.

The Intramural teams and their respective records were: Chargers 5-2, Pythons 1-6, Bane's Pains 3-4, Forty Winks 3-4, Perry's Farmers 1-6, Pete's Panthers 6-1, Red Hots 4-3, and the Hustlers 5-2. Officials for games were Intramural players not playing in that particular game.

Dennis Carmichael launches his attack as he jumps for a chance to score. Meanwhile Randy Rotert reaches to block the shot.

The '72 fall season was a rebuilding season for the BC Tennis Team, since most of its members were underclassmen and somewhat inexperienced in conference play. Defending the courts for Brownstown Central this season were Mike Smith, Senior; Mike Spurgeon and David Trowbridge, Juniors; and Doug Sweeney, Tom Goodman, Darrell Crockett and Raymond Wheeler, Sophomores.

Although this was a losing season for the BC netmen, it was not without its highlights. Mike Spurgeon was the #1 man for the year and was elected Most Valuable Player by his teammates. Darrell Crockett won all his matches to the final game in the sectional playoffs and held the #2 spot on the team.

Varsity Backers

Boost Pep, Spirit

This year, unlike all other years, the varsity spirit boosters consisted of one Senior, Carol Wischmeier and four Juniors, Bonnie Pottschmidt, Teresa Mulberry, Jeannie Reid and Debbie Darlage. Together these girls supported the teams through the season, advised by a newcomer Mrs. Terrye Tormoehlen. She proved helpful to these girls as she showed them various routines, stunts and helped with pep-sessions.

The cheerleaders assigned teachers to judge the classes' spirit during pep-session, and set up the agenda for the pep-sessions.

During the summer they attended cheerleading camp at Vincennes University bringing home five superior ribbons and the spirit stick. Using stunts and skills taught to them the cheerleaders practiced Tuesday and Thursday nights, spending part of this time decorating the dressing room.

Using a favorite yell, "Combination," the reserves end up in a layered formation with the common cliché, "Hey, Braves."

Back Teams In Thick Or Thin

Even though defeat got the better half of the reserve season this year, cheerleaders Joyce Greger, Jeanie Brewer, Donna Disque and Kathy Reid tried their best to keep the spirit going. The election of the reserve cheerleaders was held in the spring of '72. Electing these girls was the whole student body, excluding the graduating seniors.

Starting and ending each game with the commonly heard "Good-Luck" and "Victory" yells were the freshman cheerleaders, Jennifer Gaiter, Diana Sherrill, and Katrina Spurlock.

With many of their games being played at the Walnut Street Gym, the Eighth grade cheerleaders, Pam Fleetwood, and Pam Mulberry, backed the Little Braves to a winning season. Also supporting and rallying their team on to many victories were the seventh grade cheerleaders Karen Robertson and Sarah Reedy.

Our Goal:

To Achieve Harmony

When a choir sings, it must produce the correct tones to have a melodious, rather than a dissonant sound. At Central personalities must have tolerance, understanding, and friendship to keep the "sound" of the day harmonious.

Personality clashes, a generation gap and pressures of studying and working together in the confines of one building produce minor conflicts for teachers or students which can cause unpleasantness. But when everyone has friendliness and concern or at least tries to meet disagreement with compromise, the true tones of harmony will exist.

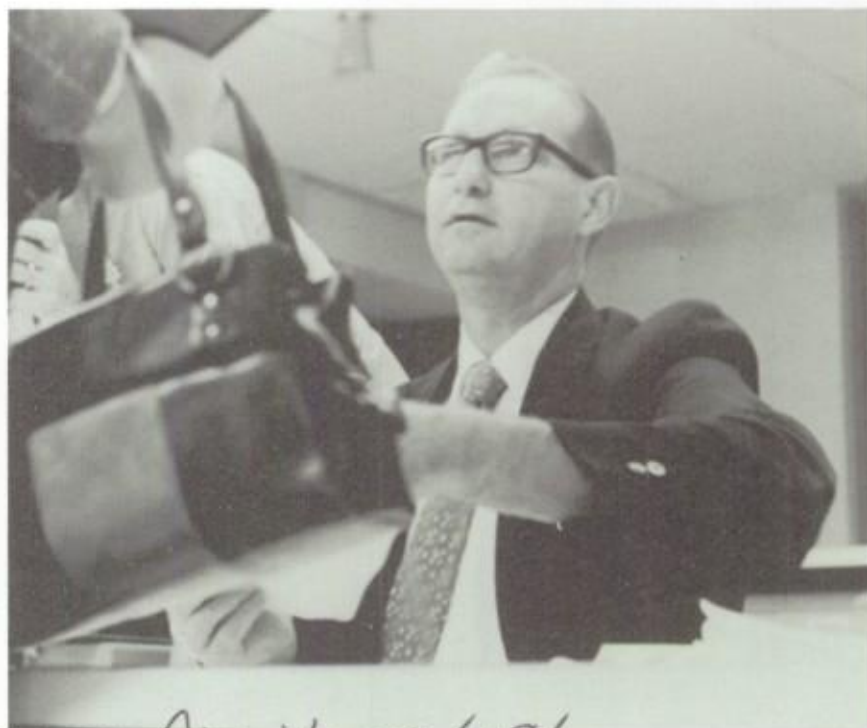

Administration Sets the Pace For

The performance of the executive duties of an institution," as stated by Webster, is the definition for "administration." Although the administration is commonly thought of in a disciplinary aspect, there is more to managing an institution.

Superintendent William B. Sharp is not often seen by an "ordinary" student. His duties are associated with the running of the high school and four elementary schools in the Brownstown Central Community School Corporation.

Giving morning announcements, having conferences with parents, helping teachers with problems, and approving posters to be put up are a few of the tasks of a "normal" day for Mr. Hal V. Driver, principal.

Taking a student home who has become ill at school is one of many situations that may confront Mr. James T. Blevins, assistant principal and athletic director. Among his usual duties are taking care of attendance, disciplinary problems, and athletic events.

*To A VERY Fine Young Lady,
James T. Blevins*

One of Mr. James T. Blevins' main duties as assistant principal is to check the students' excuses after they have been absent. In addition, Mr. Blevins is Freshman basketball coach and athletic director, and takes care of many school disciplinary problems.

Mrs. Darlene Wayman, the superintendent's private secretary, has duties including keeping records and issuing payroll checks.

Mr. Sharp, superintendent, looks over the plans for the latest project of the school corporation, the new elementary school.

In the solitude of the bookstore, Mrs. Dorothy Paul, office secretary, counts a small part of the money from the general fund.

School Functions

Mr. Hal V. Driver, BCHS principal, is caught hanging up his coat and hat ready to begin his day's responsibilities.

Seemingly enjoying a little time out from their responsibilities, Mr. Blevins eats his lunch and Mr. Driver joins him with a soft drink during fifth period in the teachers' cafeteria.

The duties of the Board of Education are to set the rules and regulations for the operation of the school corporation. Board members are, SEATED: Ralph Kovener, Osmar Schneider, Carroll Weaver. STANDING: Ralph Mitchell, Dr. Kenneth Brown, Ralph Martin, Joe Hanner.

Robertson, Paul Engle, Fred Stuckwisch, Otis Browning, Bruce McKinney, Charles Laney, Sue Cummings, Eldon Hanner, Gerald Hackman, Ray Burnside, Kenneth Wolfe.

Mrs. Terkhorn lugging cash boxes or Mr. McKinney sweeping were sights one might have seen until he took them for granted. However, one must admit that without these and other "unsung heroes," running a school for 800 students would have been impossible.

Mrs. Jean Terkhorn, manager of cafeteria funds, and Mrs. Peggy Lutes, guidance secretary, were two whose duties were often overlooked.

Mr. Keith McKinney and Mr. Joseph Knott, day and evening janitors, respectively, kept the school in good condition. A staff of four ladies worked after school helping to clean.

Mrs. Ilene Pogue, head dietician, and six cooks prepared three shifts of meals working into the menu as best they could, the allotment of government food.

Finally, the bus drivers worked in all kinds of weather. They helped transport more than 75% of Central's students to and from school.

Students Today, Leaders Tomorrow,

This year's Seniors were kept busy by scholastic activities, sports events and a variety of extra-curricular activities. Led by Jerry Disque, President, the Class of '73 consisted of 121 members, making it the smallest class attending school this year.

During the last four years the Seniors participated in several money making projects including selling pencils, sponsoring a dance, working in concession stands at basketball games, and presenting the Junior play. Profits from these projects covered expenses for the '72 Junior Prom, "Southern Serenade."

They Run In Our Family, this year's Senior play was given on November 10. Due to a new rule, this year's class was the first to be unable to take a Senior trip. Therefore, money from the play was used for Senior Walk, Baccalaurette, and Commencement exercises.

Senior keys, pictures, and memory books served as reminders of the accomplishments and friendships made while attending BCHS.

Senior boys meet in the hall before the beginning of first period classes. Morning gatherings include discussions about school happenings or talk about groups of girls passing in the hall.

Passing out absentee lists to every classroom each morning is just one of the many duties of office assistant, Cheryl Terkhorn.

Pausing to show the T-shirts from the respective Colleges they will attend, representing the fact that the Class of '73 will scatter next year are the following Senior students, Front Row: Lewann Weidig,

Juniors Operate Concession Stands

Leading the Juniors are Bonnie Pottschmidt, Treas.; Pattie Wolka, Sec.; Nancy Terkhorn, Pres.; and Jim Tulledge, Vice-Pres.

With new club opportunities and added responsibilities of the prom, the Junior Class was one of the busiest classes in the school.

The "Super Sneaker Award," awarded to the Junior Class, was for the best float in pep session on the day of football Homecoming.

The Christmas convocation retold the story of Christ's birth with the vocal accompaniment of Swing Choir which was a break in tradition.

As in past years, maintenance of the concession stands was handled by the Junior Class. Preparations were laid for the prom. The class got a surprise when the class rings arrived two weeks early which was a climax for an already eventful year.

The class was under the guidance of Mr. Hinnefeld, Mr. Duffy, Mrs. McCrary, Mrs. Judd, and Mr. Stephenson.

The class officers were Nancy Terkhorn, President, Jim Tulledge, Vice-President; Pattie Wolka, Secretary; and Bonnie Pottschmidt, Treasurer. Those who served on Student Council were Holly Hackman, Ray Toon, Katie Cartwright, and Jeanne Reid.

Move In Rank

"At least we're not Freshmen." This could be a statement heard from members of the Sophomore class.

Leading the class, the second largest at BC, were Doug Lucas, President; Lisa Shoemaker, Vice-President; Anita Murray, Treasurer; and Lisa Cummings, Secretary. Representatives to the Student Council were David Clark, Aletha Bowman, Mary Ann Hollin, and Donna Disque.

The Sophomores gave the traditional Thanksgiving convocation with a skit "Showing the true meaning of Thanksgiving." Then David Lucas, an alumni and student minister, gave the sermonette. Sponsors were Mr. Neal, Mr. Johnson, Mrs. Harrison, Mr. Roessler, Mr. Rose, and Mr. Spray.

Enjoying a coke after school in the cafeteria are the Sophomore class officers, Doug Lucas, President; Lisa Shoemaker, Vice-president; Anita Murray, Treasurer; and Lisa Cummings, Secretary.

Tammy Scott pores over the required non-fiction paperback Cheaper by the Dozen. Book reports, in the form of tests, are mandatory of all Freshman literature and English students.

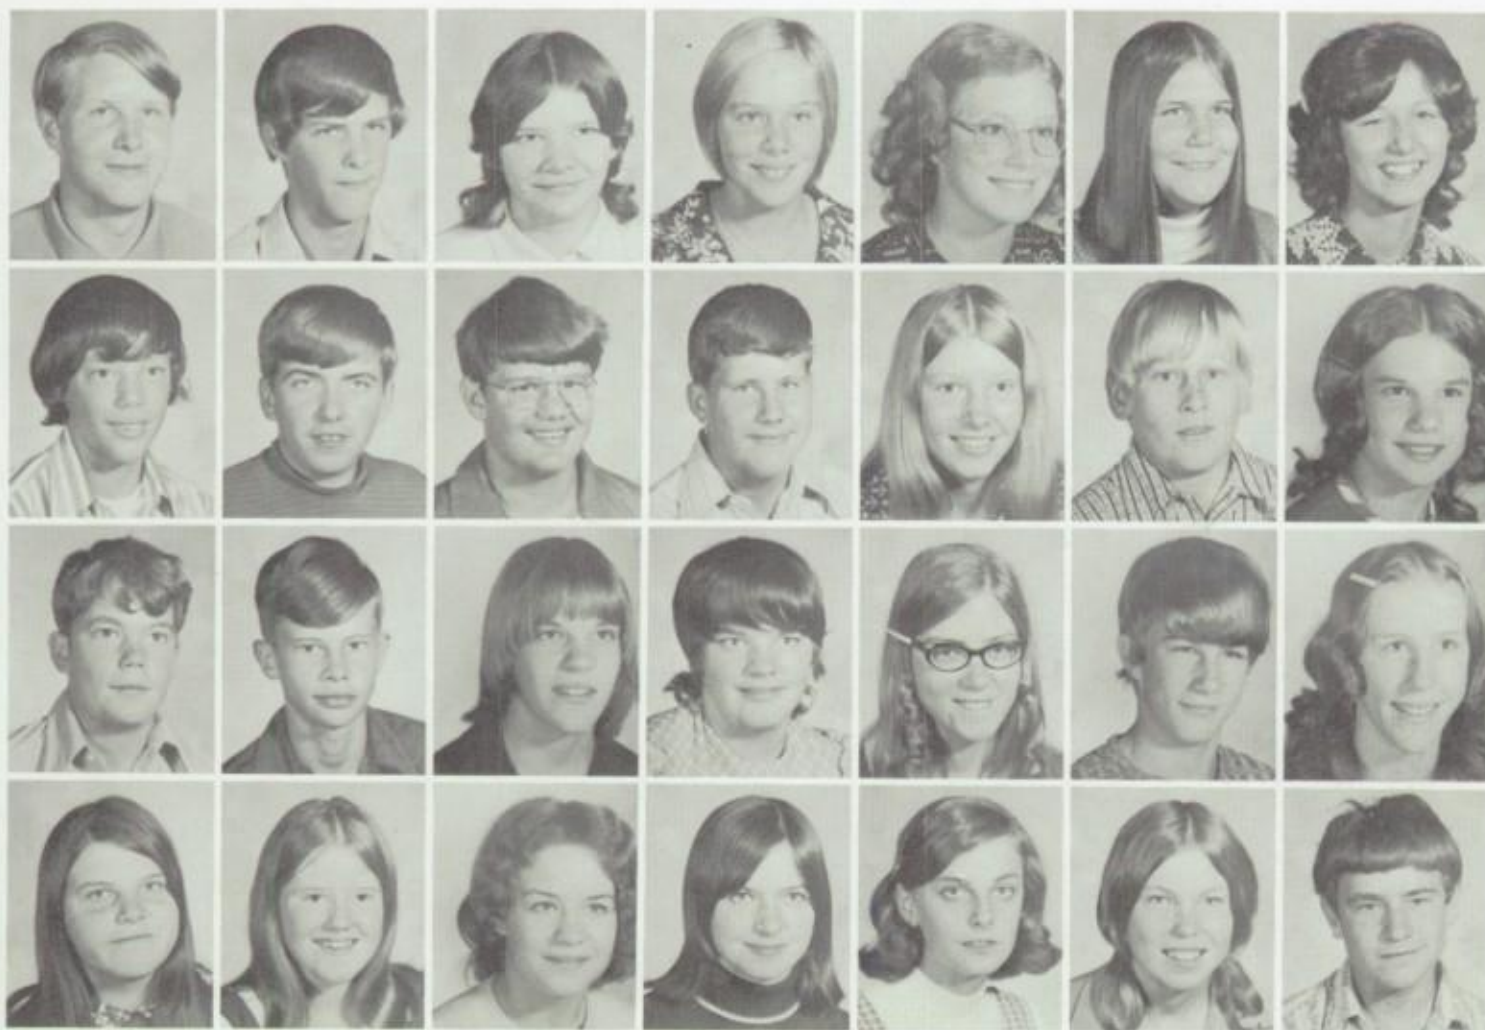

This year's Freshmen broke a tradition at BCHS by not selling the pencils with the basketball schedules on them prior to the beginning of the basketball season. Getting used to the feel of being in high school, joining new clubs and meeting requirements such as health, science, and P.E. and being able to march in band and to nominate candidates for basketball and football Homecomings were new experiences. The class also presented the annual Easter convocation.

Class officers were Jeff Brown, President, Brian Rice, Vice-president; Katrma Spurlock, Secretary; Nadine Ison, Treasurer. Tom Kieffer, Julie Hackman, Jeff Brown, and Carol Shoemaker represented the class of '76 in Student Council. Class sponcers were Miss Connie Allen, Mr. Charles Snyder, Mr. John Stuckwisch, Mr. Edmund Loudon, and Mr. Robert Myers.

The Freshmen officers Brian Rice, Vice-Pres; Katrina Spurlock, Sec.; Nadine Ison, Treas.; Jeff Brown, Pres., come to the gym to boost the Braves.

Our Goal:

To Appreciate Responsibility

The little boy and girl who were given the chance to go to the grocery store for their mommy may have appreciated the responsibility which they had been given. Later they enjoyed budgeting their allowances and saving to buy treats their sweet tooth craved. As teenagers, they discovered the responsibilities of jobs. When they held the job of carhop or gas station attendant, they learned the art of selling.

Whether doing a job for "mommy," working for salary, or observing quality products as a consumer, one should appreciate responsibility, for accepting it and carrying it out denotes maturity.

Failing Or Achieving, Our Goal:

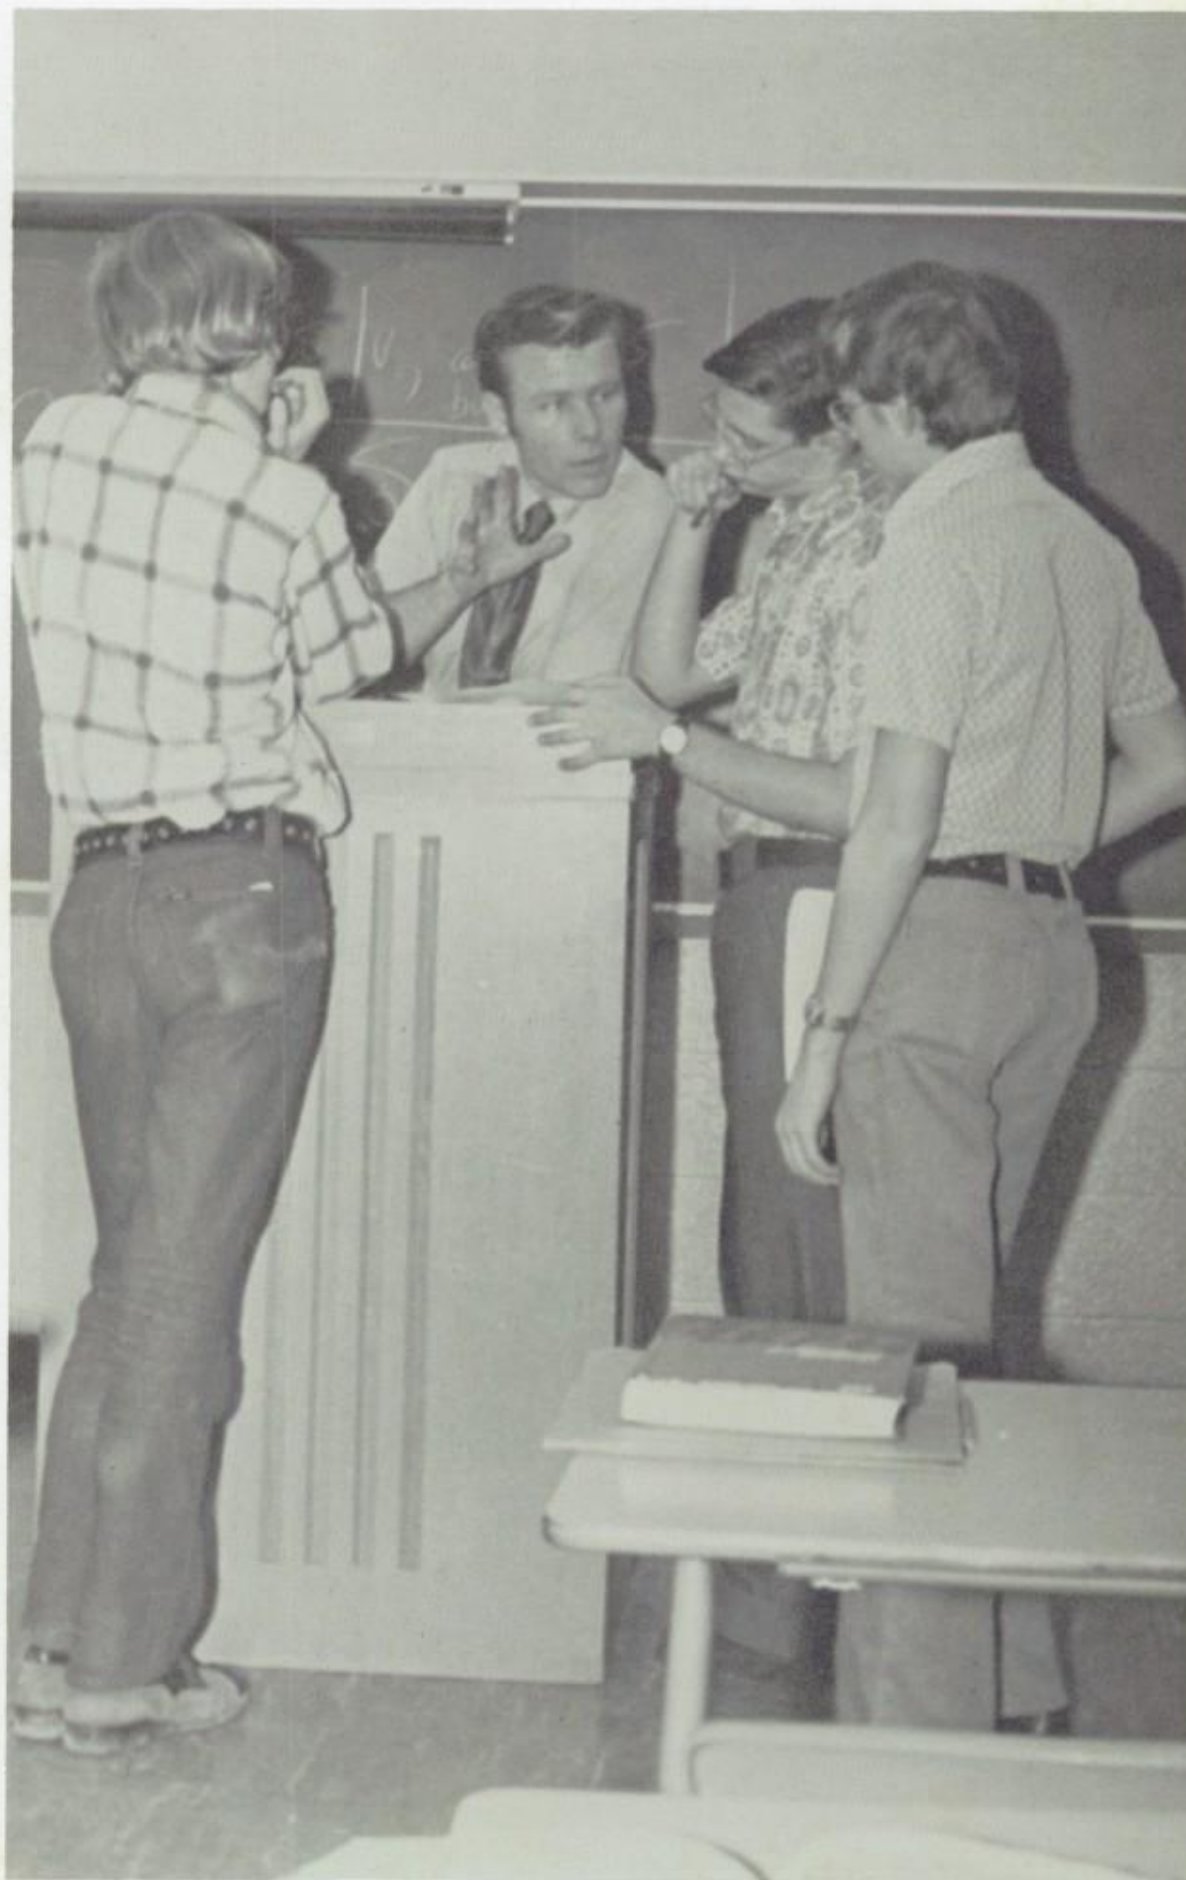

To Keep Seeking Ideals

Everyone sets goals. Great leaders seek peace. Teachers strive to better working relationships with students or to adopt texts which will stimulate interest. Athletes mark winning as an important goal.

Some goals are never achieved. Presidents Truman and Johnson died shortly before the signing of the peace in Viet Nam. Central's b'ball Braves suffered several defeats in mid-season.

Nevertheless, some ideals were achieved. Teachers and students broke communication barriers when students freely brought problems to teachers and teachers put aside distractions in an attempt to help them.

Although some did not reach the goal they had set, they kept trying knowing that progress cannot be achieved unless one climbs for that star.
